

Contents

Editor's Foreword	ix
Introductory Remarks	xvii
Texts Cited	xix
Introduction: Remarks on Political Philosophy	1
LECTURES ON HOBBES
LECTURE I: Hobbes's Secular Moralism and the Role of His Social Contract	23
LECTURE II: Human Nature and the State of Nature	41
LECTURE III: Hobbes's Account of Practical Reasoning	54
LECTURE IV: The Role and Powers of the Sovereign	73
APPENDIX: Hobbes Index	94
LECTURES ON LOCKE
LECTURE I: His Doctrine of Natural Law	103
LECTURE II: His Account of a Legitimate Regime	122
LECTURE III: Property and the Class State	138
LECTURES ON HUME
LECTURE I: "Of the Original Contract"	159
LECTURE II: Utility, Justice, and the Judicious Spectator	174
LECTURES ON ROUSSEAU
LECTURE I: The Social Contract: Its Problem	191
LECTURE II: The Social Contract: Assumptions and the General Will (I)	214
LECTURE III: The General Will (II) and the Question of Stability	229

Contents

---

LECTURES ON MILL

LECTURE I: His Conception of Utility	251
LECTURE II: His Account of Justice	266
LECTURE III: The Principle of Liberty	284
LECTURE IV: His Doctrine as a Whole	297
APPENDIX: Remarks on Mill's Social Theory	314

LECTURES ON MARX

LECTURE I: His View of Capitalism as a Social System	319
LECTURE II: His Conception of Right and Justice	335
LECTURE III: His Ideal: A Society of Freely Associated Producers	354

APPENDICES

Four Lectures on Henry Sidgwick

LECTURE I: Sidgwick's Methods of Ethics	375
LECTURE II: Sidgwick on Justice and on the Classical Principle of Utility	385
LECTURE III: Sidgwick's Utilitarianism	392
LECTURE IV: Summary of Utilitarianism	412

Five Lectures on Joseph Butler

LECTURE I: The Moral Constitution of Human Nature	416
LECTURE II: The Nature and Authority of Conscience	422
LECTURE III: The Economy of the Passions	432
LECTURE IV: Butler's Argument against Egoism	439
LECTURE V: Supposed Conflict between Conscience and Self-Love	446
APPENDIX: Additional Notes on Butler	452

Course Outline

458

Index

460