

Contents

PART ONE Theoretical foundations and methodological approaches

- 1 Introduction to the roles of input, interaction, and feedback in L2 learning
- 2 Methodology in interaction research

PART TWO Contextual and instructional factors and applications in interaction-driven L2 learning

- 3 Classrooms, laboratories, and interlocutors
- 4 Tasks and the provision of learning opportunities in interaction

PART THREE Cognitive and learner differences influencing the interaction–learning relationships

- 5 Learner characteristics: age and interaction-driven L2 learning
- 6 Cognitive processes: the role of working memory in interaction-driven learning

PART FOUR Understanding and extending interaction research

- 7 Negotiation, corrective feedback, and recasts in SLA
- 8 Driving interaction research forward

Bibliography

Index