

Contents

Introduction	1
1 IoT Law: Obstacles and Alternatives in the Regulation of a Non-Binary Sociotechnological Phenomenon	9
1.1 Introduction	9
1.2 The IoT Today: Related Concepts, Definitions, and Core Features	11
1.3 Two Reasons That It Is Difficult to Regulate	15
1.4 Some Regulatory and Policy Options for an Interconnected World	40
1.5 Overcoming Regulatory Binaries, Coregulation, and Supervisory Authority	61
1.6 Interim Conclusion	66
2 The Internet of Spying Sex Toys, Killer Petrol Stations, and Manipulative Toasters: A View of Private Ordering from the Contractual Quagmire	68
2.1 Scope of Chapter and Private Ordering	68
2.2 A Four-Pronged Methodology	69
2.3 Consumer Benefits	72
2.4 The Main Risks Encountered by Consumers of Things	74
2.5 Fantastic Legals and Where to Find Them: Understanding Private Ordering through Amazon Echo's Contractual Quagmire	83
2.6 Interim Conclusion	115

3	The Internet of Contracts: The Tension between Consumer Contract Laws and IoT Imbalance	117
3.1	Scope of the Chapter	117
3.2	The IoT Overcomes Yet Another Binary: Unfairness of Substance and Unfairness of Form in the Smart Home	118
3.3	Private Ordering 'by Bricking': Can IoT Traders Deprive Consumers of their Things' Smartness?	142
3.4	Precontractual Duties to Inform Under the CRD in a Hyperconnected, Interface-Free World	167
3.5	Interim Conclusion	181
4	The Internet of Vulnerabilities: Tackling Human and Product Vulnerabilities through Noncontractual Consumer Laws	184
4.1	Introduction	184
4.2	What's in a Product? EU Product Liability Laws and the Challenge of a Defective IoT	185
4.3	Can We Trust the Internet of Personalised Things?	200
4.4	Interim Conclusion	233
5	The Internet of Loos, the General Data Protection Regulation, and Digital Dispossession under Surveillance Capitalism	235
5.1	Introduction: The Erosion of Privacy and Data Protection in the Global Private-Public Surveillance Network	235
5.2	The GDPR: From Confidentiality to Data Control	237
5.3	Data Protection Issues in the IoT	239
5.4	Surveillance Capitalism and IoT Apparatus: From Prediction to Execution	251
5.5	Looking into Alexa's Black Box	258
5.6	Can the GDPR Counter IoT-Powered Digital Dispossession?	264
5.7	Interim Conclusion: Data Protection Law and the 'Smart' Proletariat	274
6	The Internet of Things (You Don't Own) under Bourgeois Law: An Integrated Tactic to Rebalance Intellectual Property	275
6.1	Introduction: Intellectual Property and Rentier Capitalism	275
6.2	An Overview of the IP Issues and Themes in the IoT	277

- 6.3 Death of Ownership: To Strengthen Property Rights and Empower IoT Users-Digital Peasants or to Counter Bourgeois Property? 285
- 6.4 Intra-IP Limitations: IP Exceptions or the Piecemeal Protection of Public Interest 295
- 6.5 IP Overlaps and the Erosion of IP Exceptions in the 'Smart' World 313
- 6.6 Extra-IP Limitations: Are Standard Essential Patents on Fair, Reasonable, and Nondiscriminatory Terms IoT-FRANDly? 323
- 6.7 Interim Conclusion 339

Conclusion: When the Law Fails Us: The Commons for a Collectivised and Open IoT 341

Index 360