

Contents

1	Introduction	1
	References	6
 Part I Domain: Conceptual, Empirical and Historical Explorations of Access to Justice
2	Is There a (Human) Right of Access to Justice?	11
2.1	Introduction	11
2.2	One Pattern, Three Areas of Concern, and Social Duties of Assistance (and Their Restriction)	13
2.3	Four Challenges to Human Rights	15
2.4	Access to What?	17
2.5	The Four Challenges Reconsidered	19
2.6	The Plan Ahead	21
	References	22
3	Equal Access To Justice: Three Interpretations	25
3.1	Introduction	25
3.2	The Ideal of Equal Protection of the Law	26
3.3	The Ideal of Equal Standing in Open Court	29
3.4	The Ideal of Human Agency in Legal Affairs	34
	References	37
4	Duties of Assistance and the Criminal/Civil Distinction	39
4.1	Introduction	39
4.2	On Qualifying the Practical Relevance of the Distinction Between Criminal and Civil Cases in Equal Access to Justice: The Perils of Being Right for the Wrong Reasons	40
4.3	The Point of a Categorical Right to Counsel for the Criminal Defendant	42

4.4	How Much Is Enough? When the Right Reasons for Distinguishing Are Also Good Reasons for Blurring the Distinction Itself	47
4.5	The Three Interpretations of Equal Access to Justice Again	50
	References	53
5	Unmet Legal Needs: Identification and Rich Descriptions	55
5.1	Introduction	55
5.2	Empirical Studies of Access to Justice and Their Evaluative Limitations	56
5.3	Beyond Litigation Rates: Unmet Legal Needs	57
5.4	Why Capabilities?	58
	References	61
 Part II Normative Foundations
6	The Need for a Theoretical Base: Four Arguments	65
6.1	Introduction	65
6.2	One Introductory Argument on the Point of Equal Access to Justice	66
6.3	Three Further Arguments on Equal Access to Justice: Limits and Insights	69
6.4	The Need for a Theoretical Basis	74
	References	75
7	Why Capabilities? On the Duty to, at Times and Provisionally Pause, Cool Down, and Listen	77
7.1	Process Based or Outcome-Based Aspects of Freedom: On Some Practical Damages of a Classic Theoretical Distinction . . .	77
7.2	Sen's Motivating Concerns with Distinguishing Between Process and Opportunity Aspects of Freedom	79
7.3	Nussbaum to the Rescue: On the Human Animal Condition, Lists and the Duty to Pause, Cool Down and Listen	80
7.4	Equality in the Space of Capabilities	85
7.5	The Good That We Seek: Capabilities or Functionings?	88
7.6	A Human Right, a Social Duty, or a Capability? A Reprise	90
7.7	The Content of the Duty: 'At Times', 'Provisionally', 'Pause', 'Cool Down', and 'Listen'	90
7.8	A Social Duty, or a Human Right?	93
	References	96

8	The Instrumentalities of Equal Access to Justice: Defending Democratic Cooperation	99
8.1	Access to Justice and Social Justice	99
8.2	The Epistemic Value of Access to Justice	104
8.3	The Expressive Value of Access to Justice	106
8.4	Conclusion	107
	References	107
 Part III Practical Applications: Testing the Political Principles of Equal Access to Justice
9	Free Legal Counsel and Access to Justice	111
9.1	The Uncertain Paths of Constitutionalization: The Right to Legal Aid in The U.S.; and Europe	111
9.2	Legal Aid in the US Supreme Court: Gideon and Beyond	112
9.3	From Retaining One's Lawyer to Access to Justice: From Formal Opportunities to Capabilities	115
9.4	The Dubious Grounds of a Utilitarian Calculus in Allocating Access to Justice	119
9.5	The Protection of Civil Legal Aid in the European Convention of Human Rights	121
9.6	Fertile Functionings and Corrosive Disadvantages in Access to Justice	127
9.7	Capabilities or Functionings? A Reprise	131
9.8	On Modeling the Delivery of Legal Aid: Institutional Limits and Political Challenges	133
9.9	A Tentative Evaluative Synthesis	140
	References	141
10	Is Group Litigation Legitimate?	145
10.1	Introduction	145
10.2	Organizing Judicial Doctrines of the Class Action Device	149
10.3	The Right To a Day in Court Argument. Its Structure, Content, Practical Consequences and Limits	150
10.4	On How To Justify Group Litigation	153
10.5	Mandatory Classes; Opt-In or Opt-Out Aggregation Mechanisms	158
	References	162
11	Still Against Settlement?	165
11.1	Introduction	165
11.2	A Summary of Levmore and Fagan's Analysis of Confidential Settlements	168
11.3	A Restatement of Levmore and Fagan's Analysis: Effective Legal Protection, Equal Standing and Party Autonomy	170

11.4 Levmore and Fagan After Fiss: Five Arguments Against Settlement 172

11.5 Legitimacy and Publicity in Judicial Administration: The Epistemic and Expressive Value of Public Trials 178

11.6 Conclusion 182

References 183

12 Conclusion 185

References 191