

Contents

List of figures	xvi
List of tables	xviii
Part 1 Think!	1
1 Introduction	3
Critical community psychology in Manchester, UK	3
Why Manchester?	6
Learning through action and action through learning	9
Action learning	10
Action research	11
Language, discourse and representation	12
What do we mean by 'critical'?	14
Orientation to the book: structure of the book and changes for the second edition	15
2 What is critical community psychology?	19
The nature and origins of community psychology	19
Definitions	22
The emergence of community psychology in different parts of the world	26
Key themes in critical community psychology	29
From prevention to liberation	29
Liberation and decolonisation	31
Global trends and critical community psychology	31
Think global, act local?	33
Sharing experiences, strategies and programmes	33
The role of social movements	34
Social justice and a just society	35
Core values underpinning a critical community psychology	36
Social justice	38
Stewardship	38
Community	39

3	Core elements of a critical community psychology	41
	Elements of critical community psychology	41
	The ecological metaphor	42
	Adaptation	43
	Cycling of resources	43
	Interdependence	43
	Succession	44
	Unintended consequences	44
	Non-linearity	44
	Fields and edges	45
	Nesting	45
	Ecological design	45
	Ecological priority	46
	The systems perspective	48
	Multiple levels of analysis	49
	The person-in-context	50
	An ontology of individual and society	50
	The person–situation formula	51
	Person–situation level elements of analysis	51
	Community–society level elements of analysis	54
	Society and the individual	55
	A dialectical relationship between people and systems:
	conscientisation	57
	Working together	58
	Interdisciplinarity	58
	Agency, power and collective action	59
	Participation	60
	Prefigurative action	60
	Core principles underlying a critical community psychology	61
	Diversity	61
	Innovation	62
	Liberation	62
	Commitment	62
	Critical reflection	62
	Humility	62
	Conclusions	63
4	The contested nature of community	69
	What is community?	70
	Theory descriptions of community	72
	Dimensions of community: sentiment, social structure and space	73
	Sentiment	73
	Psychological sense of community	74
	The cultural and symbolic sense of community	75
	Space	77

Social structure	279
Multi-dimensional communities	281
Power and community	282
Social exclusion	283
Conclusions about community	284
Advocacy	285
5 Community as social ties	87
Social ties	87
Social ties of affection	88
Social ties of interdependence	89
Social ties of coercion	90
Theory prescriptions for community	90
Ties of affection and co-operation: community as social capital	91
Ties of coercion: community as ghetto	95
The ghetto walls	97
Social boundaries: benign or benevolent?	98
Community and social policy	99
Nature of participation	100
Part 1: Critical disruption of Think!	107
Critically disrupting the challenge to individualism	108
Critically disrupting our history of community psychology	109
Part 1: Further resources	113
Films	113
Theatre	114
Books	114
Other relevant resources	115
Relevant networks/online groups	115
Part 2 Act!	117
6 Framing the issue	119
Social issues	120
Need	122
Positionality and the definition of issues or problems	128
Whose need?	128
Getting to know the community	129
Door knocking and social media (ask and listen)	130
Community audit	130
Community profiling	131
Use of official information and statistics	135

67	Observation	136
81	Community walks	136
82	Making contact and gaining entry in the community	138
83	Problem situations as human systems	142
84	Stakeholders and stakeholder analyses	152
7	Action planning	155
87	Decision making	155
88	Who makes what kinds of decisions?	159
88	Stakeholder analysis and action planning	160
90	Boundary critique – towards value based decision making	163
90	Fourth generation evaluation	169
91	Participatory appraisal of needs and development of action (PANDA)	171
92	Strengths, weaknesses, opportunities and threats (SWOT)	171
97	Force field analysis	172
98	Option appraisal	175
99	Compromise	176
100	Visioning	177
	Mixing methods	179
107	Complex decision making: polarity management	180
8	Action 1: Furtherance of critical consciousness and creation of new forms of social settings	185
	Action for change	185
113	Strategies of critical community psychological action	187
	Furtherance of critical consciousness (conscientisation)	187
113	Problematization	189
114	Experiential learning	192
114	'Capacitation'	195
115	Deideologisation	198
115	Systematisation of experiences	200
	Creation of new forms of social relations (new social settings)	204
117	Multi-dimensional nature of social situations	204
	Behaviour settings	206
119	New or alternative social settings	207
150	The radical nature of alternative social settings	211
9	Action 2: Development of alliances, accompaniment and advocacy	213
128	Making links, the development of alliances and counter systems	214
129	Processes of making links and working together	214
130	Communities of interest or communities of practice	217
130	Alliances and coalitions	217
131	Partnerships	218
132	Working at the ecological edge	222

Alliances, new social settings and connecting with social movements	229
Accompaniment and advocacy	231
Psychosocial accompaniment	231
Skills needed for accompaniment	234
Knowledge and accompaniment	235
Advocacy	235
10 Action 3: Archive research and policy intervention	245
Working with archives and big data	245
Archive research	245
Accessing and using archives	246
Desk (or armchair) research	248
Working with big and not so big data	250
Statactivism	253
Policy intervention	255
Policy formulation	256
Policy implementation	265
Policy analysis	267
Part 2: Critical disruption of Act!	273
Chronic uncertainty	275
Work ethic	275
Part 2: Further resources	277
Films	277
Toolkits	278
Other resources	278
Practical ideas	279
Re-drawing boundaries of critical community psychology	279
Policy ideas	280
Part 3 Reflect!	281
11 Evaluation	283
Purpose of evaluation	284
A decolonising stance for evaluation	285
Principles of evaluation	286
Evaluation frameworks	289
Systemic approaches to evaluation	289
Stakeholder evaluation	290
Goal based evaluation	291
Organisational evaluation	291

Politics of evaluation	294
What is to be evaluated?	296
'Theory of change' perspectives on evaluation	296
Realistic or realist perspectives on evaluation	298
Systematisation of experiences	301
Participation and evaluation	304
Participation and empowerment in evaluation	306
Resistance to involvement as a barrier to participation in evaluation	309
Capacity building for evaluation	311
Skills for evaluation	312
12 Change, influence and power	319
The nature of social change	319
Incremental or radical change	323
Linear and non-linear change	324
Stage approaches to change	325
Strategic change	326
Resistance to change	327
Action research as change	329
Social movements, power and ideology	330
Social influence	331
Social change tactics	333
Social power, powerlessness and empowerment	333
Taxonomy of power	334
The social structure of social power	337
Power analysis	338
13 Capability: roles, skills and reflections on learning for community psychologists	341
A capability perspective	341
Competence not competencies	342
Roles for facilitating change	345
Facilitation roles	345
Learning or educational roles	345
Representational roles	346
Technical roles	347
Skills for facilitating change	348
Interpersonal skills	349
Social problem solving skills	349
Organisation skills	351
Research skills	351
The context of community psychological action	352
Reflexivity as part of practice	354
Constraints on working as a community psychologist and spaces for resistance	357

7.8	Ethical issues	360
	Risk	362
7.9	Power (again)	362
8.1	Prefigurative learning	365
8.2	The circle of experiential learning	194
	Part 3: Critical disruption of Reflect!	367
9.2	Three strategies for working across community or organisational
	Evaluation and the audit culture	367
	Auditing skills	369
11.1	Critical disruption of critical reflection	371
11.2	Goal based evaluation	291
	Part 3: Further resources	373
	General resources	373
	Films	374
	Books	374
14	Critical disruption: does critical community psychology have an adequate praxis?	375
	The case for and against community psychology	375
	Community psychology as oppression or liberation	376
	Is there an adequate praxis for community psychology?	378
	A new context: extreme and globalised oppression	380
	Rethinking the amelioration–transformation distinction	380
	Final word	382
	References	385
	Index	419