

CONTENTS

Part I Introduction: Why Burmanization Is Important

1	Eh Htoo's Auto-biography	3
1.1	My Introductions to Burmese History: A Personal Account	3
1.2	My Grandfather and Me	8
1.3	My Education	10
1.4	Why Ne Win and Burmanization?	12
	A Bibliography of Saw Eh Htoo's Published Works	14
2	Why Ne Win's Burmanization Policies Are Still Important Sixty Years Later: The Burmese Burden	15
2.1	The Origins of Ne Win's Burmanization Programs	16
2.2	The Beginning of Ne Win's Burmanization Policies: The Burmese Burden	19
2.3	Ne Win's Collaborators from the Directorate of Psychological Warfare	21
2.3.1	Ne Win, the Thirty Comrades, and the Celebration of Burma's Army	22
2.3.2	Burmese Dominance	26
2.4	The Content for Ne Win's Burmanization Policies	27
2.5	Ne Win's Intellectual Collaborators, on the Burmese Way to Socialism from the Directorate of Psychological Warfare	29

2.5.1	U Chit Hlaing (Ko Ko Maung Gyi)	31
2.5.2	General Aung Gyi (1919–2012)	31
2.5.3	Dr. Maung Maung	32
2.6	Shaping a Burmanized Narrative	34
2.6.1	Buddhism and Nat Worship	35
2.6.2	Burmese Buddhist Identity	37
2.6.3	The Military	38
2.7	The Collapse of Peace Initiative in Burma (2015–2021)	39
2.7.1	The Disappearance of the Liberal Democrats	40
2.7.2	The Continuing Narrative of Burmese Exceptionalism and the Rohingya	41
2.8	The Directorate of Psychological Warfare: Habitus, Thymos, Isothymia, and Megalothymia	42
2.9	Talks of Peace	43
	References	45

Part II The Historical Origins of Burmanization

3	Historical Narratives and Burmanization (1824–1947)	51
3.1	The Multiple Historical Narratives of Burmanization	51
3.1.1	The Royal History of Burma	52
3.1.2	The Three Great Dynasties Approach to Burma's History	54
3.2	A Social History: Pre-independence, Conquest, and British Colonialism	57
3.2.1	The Administration of British Burma	59
3.2.2	Direct Rule	60
3.2.3	Indirect Rule	61
3.3	Burmese Nationalist Narratives in Response to British Colonialism	62
3.3.1	Monks	64
3.3.2	Students and Urban Workers	65
3.3.3	Peasant Rebellion	65
3.4	World War II and the Emergence of Bamar Identity and Hegemony	66
3.5	Rebellion, Independence, and More Rebellions	69
3.5.1	The Communist Rebellions	70
3.5.2	The Karen Rebellion	71
3.5.3	Other Revolts: Mon, Kachin, Etc.	74

3.6	The Life and Death of Prime Minister Aung San	74
3.6.1	Aung San as a Politician	75
3.6.2	The Hagiography of Aung San	76
	References	78
4	Aung San, U Nu, and Ne Win Create a New Country (1948–1962)	81
4.1	Aung San, U Nu, and Ne Win Create a New Country, January 4, 1948–March 1, 1962	81
4.1.1	Prime Minister Aung San 1946–1948	82
4.1.2	Independence, January 4, 1948	83
4.1.3	Revolts: Communists and Chinese Nationalists in the North, Karen in the East, and Mujahadin in the West	84
4.1.4	Battle of Insein and the Restoration of the Rangoon Government	85
4.1.5	New Win and the Tatmadaw as National Heroes	86
4.2	Cold War Play Ground: Foreign Threats, 1948–1962	87
4.2.1	U Nu's Neutral Foreign Policy	88
4.2.2	Modernizing the Military Under UNu	89
4.2.3	The Directorate of Psychological Warfare and Ne Win's Historians	92
4.3	Ne Win's First Government, 1958–1960	93
4.4	U Nu's Second Government, 1960–1962	95
4.5	The 1962 Coup and the Threat of Division	96
4.6	The Need for a New Historical Narrative of Burma	97
4.7	The Origins of Ne Win Philosophy: The Philosophers from the Directorate of Psychological Warfare Take Over	99
	References	99
5	Ne Win's Burmanization Ideology: The Burmese Way to Socialism (1962–1966)	101
5.1	Ne Win Takes Over, March 1–2, 1962	101
5.2	Ne Win's Political Ideology and the New Revolutionary Council	103
5.2.1	The Triumph of 1962, Rooted in 1948	105
5.2.2	The Ideology of 1962	106
5.2.3	Foreign Influence and the Economy	106
5.2.4	Citizenship Laws	107
5.2.5	Nationalization of Schools and Missions	109

7.1.2	Aung San Suu Kyi, 8.8.88, and More Military Rule	157
7.1.3	The New Constitution and Hurricane Nargis	164
7.1.4	Elections and the Return of the International Community and Liberal Values	164
7.1.5	Norwegian Style Ceasefires, Open Elections, and the Persistence of Burmanization	165
7.1.6	The NLD-Military Government and the Rohingya	167
7.1.7	The February 1, 2021, Coup and the Return of Fear	168
7.2	Saw Eh Htoo's Hopes	169
7.2.1	Political Agency and the Peacebuilding Vision, 2022	169
	References	177
 Part III The Sociology of Burmanization and the Search for Peace
8	The Search for Peace in Myanmar	185
8.1	Basic Foundation for Realizing Peace in Myanmar	185
8.1.1	A De-Burmanization Narrative	187
8.1.2	De-Militarization Program	189
8.1.3	De-Centralization of State-Building: The Problem of Burmese Kingship and Barami	192
8.2	Creating Sustainable Peace for a Future Myanmar	194
8.2.1	The Will of Peace and Politics	195
8.2.2	Reconstructing Peace Narrative	197
8.2.3	Peace Education, a Culture of Nonviolence, and Dialogue	198
8.2.4	Cultivating Diverse Values	202
8.3	Saving Buddhism and Promoting Religious Freedom	204
8.4	Conclusion	206
	References	207
9	Final Thoughts About Burmanization	209
9.1	Eh Htoo's Background and Dissertation Work	209
9.2	Good Points That Eh Htoo and Others Convinced Me to Continue Asking About	210

9.3	Westerners Are Not Very Good at Seeing Power Outside Myanmar's State, But PhD Students from Myanmar Do	214
9.4	Soldiers Make Terrible Politicians	214
9.5	A Few Final Notes About What I Find Interesting	216
9.6	What Eh Htoo and My Others PhD Students Discovered Goes Beyond Myanmar	217
	References	218
	Index	219