

Contents

Bridging the Gaps Between International Relations and Area Studies 1
Silvia D’Amato, Matteo Dian, and Alessandra Russo

Global and Post-western IR, Area Studies, and the Rise of China: Promises and Limits 17
Matteo Dian

Africa in the Study of International Relations: The (Double) Realist Bias of Global IR 35
Luca Raineri and Edoardo Baldaro

Middle Eastern Studies and International Relations: Toward a Transformative Dialogue? 55
Irene Costantini and Ruth Hanau-Santini

Regionalisms as a Middle-Path Between Area Studies and IR. A Political Sociology of Central American Regionalism 73
Kevin Parthenay

Connecting the Local and the Global: International Practice Theory as a Trading Zone for International Relations and Area Studies Scholars 93
Chiara De Franco

International Relations in the Margins. Education for Peace, Education Against Extremism in Kosovo 111
Ervjola Selenica

Political Ecologies of Landmines in the Borderlands of Myanmar 129
Francesco Buscemi

Dyadic Approach and Quantitative Analysis: Easing the Dialogue
Between IR and Area Studies 151
Paolo Rosa

In Lieu of a Conclusion: The Ongoingness of a Debate 161
Silvia D’Amato, Matteo Dian, and Alessandra Russo

Index 171