

CONTENTS

1	Introduction	1
	Historiography and Theory	9
	The Source Material	17
	The Structure of the Book	18
2	Framing the Ottoman Nation	23
	Tanzimat Reformers and Nation-Building	29
	The Constitution and the Ottoman Citizen	35
	Abdulhamid II and Ottoman Muslim Nationalism	39
3	Ottomanism Between Ideology and Realpolitik	43
	The Response: Ali Kemal and the Liberal Critique	54
	Ahmet Ferit's Realism	55
4	Revolution and Disillusion	63
	The Reception	70
	Freedom of the "People"?	77
	Early Disappointments and the End of Euphoria	80
	The Politics of Revolution	82
	The Counterrevolution Attempt	86
5	Identity Policies in Action	91
	Centralization and the Nationalities	96
	Ottoman Unity Through Education	104
	Reactions to Centralization and Homogenization	107

	Return to Ottoman Muslim Nationalism	112
	The Balkan Wars	115
	World War I	119
6	Claiming the Homeland?	125
	A "Nationalist" Movement?	127
	Armistice and the New Ottoman Realities	129
	The Political Situation: Unionists and Resistance	131
	The Officers Make Their Move	136
	Wilson and National Self-Determination	139
	From Population to Nation	144
	The Ottoman non-Muslims and the Resistance Movement	146
	Kurds, Turks and Ottoman Muslim Unity	148
	The Central Government and the Resistance Movement	153
	The Last Assembly of Deputies and the New Assembly in Ankara	155
	Ottoman to Turk or Ottoman as Turk?	158
7	Reframing the Nation	165
	A (Partial) Farewell to Ottomanness?	167
	"National" Territory and Its "Nation"	170
	Non-Muslims and the Nation	175
	Mosul or the "Homeland"?	181
	The Halkists and the Turkists—Power Politics and Nationalism	187
	The Political Process and Muslim Unity	193
	A Question of Saying or Not Saying?	208
8	Conclusion	217
	Bibliography	229
	Index	249