

Table of Contents

Preface	7
'Bringing forth from the Treasure New and Old' Septuagint Studies and Exegetical Methods Siegfried KREUZER	9
Non-Israelites and the God of Israel The Vocabulary of 'Conversion' in the Septuagint and Greek Jewish Literature against its Greek-Hellenistic Background Daniela SCIALABBA	27
The Use of the Septuagint in Critical Commentaries Emanuel TOV	41
Elisha's Posthumous Miracle in Textual History (II Kings 13. 20–21) What does This Story Teach Us about the Textual History of the Books of Kings? Adrian SCHENKER	59
The Septuagint's Faculty of Putting Things in Their Right Place Challenges of a Critical Edition of IV Kingdoms / II Kings 10. 30–31; 13. 14–21 Julio TREBOLLE, Pablo TORIJANO and Andrés PIQUER	71
Can We Understand the Pillars of the First Temple without the LXX? Textual and Iconographic Perspective Daniel PROKOP	93
Haman through the Looking Glass The Refraction of Genre in Greek Esther Cameron BOYD-TAYLOR	105
Rhetoric of Solomon's Speech in I Kings 8. 12–13 and III Kingdoms 8. 53a Peter DUBOVSKÝ	129
Lost in Translation: LXX-Jeremiah through the Lens of Pragmatics Benedetta ROSSI	157

Narratological Approaches to the LXX of the Books of Samuel	183
Leonardo PESSOA DA SILVA PINTO
Septuagint and New Testament in Papyri and Pandects	199
Texts, Intertextuality and Criteria of Edition
Martin KARRER
The Litter of Solomon	279
Textual and Exegetical Problems in Canticles 3. 6–11
Luciano BOSSINA
Reading 'According to the Revelation Shown to Moses'	303
A Study of the Influence of the LXX Text on Patristic Biblical Interpretation
Georg GÄBEL
The Importance of the LXX for Biblical Theology	327
Some Notes on Method
Luca MAZZINGHI
Biblical Index	341