

Contents

Publisher's Foreword 7

Introduction by Rainer Funk 9

I Modern Man's Pathology of Normalcy (Four Lectures Given at the New School for Social Research in 1953)

1 Mental Health in the Modern World 15

- (a) What is mental health? 15
- (b) Principles and attitudes of modern society 22
- (c) Human conditions and psychic needs 25
- (d) Mental health and the need for religion 27

2 The Frame of Reference and Devotion in Contemporary Culture 31

- (a) The religious vacuum 31
- (b) About the concept of work 36
- (c) The worship of production and consumption 40
- (d) About happiness and security 43

3 Alienation and the Problem of Mental Health 46

- (a) Alienation and abstractification 46
- (b) Alienated experience 51
- (c) Alienated language 52
- (d) Alienated feelings and sentimentality 55
- (e) Mental health and being related 58
- (f) Alienation and boredom 59
- (g) Alienation in politics 60
- (h) Alienated thinking 63
- (i) Alienated loving 66

4 Ways to Overcome the Insane Society 68

- (a) Socialist's vision and its distortion 68
- (b) What can be done? 75

II The Concept of Mental Health

1 Prevailing Concepts of Mental Health 81

2 Mental Health and Evolutionary Thinking 83

3 My Own Concept of Mental Health 85

- (a) Overcoming narcissism 86
- (b) Overcoming alienation 93
- (c) Overcoming necrophilia 94
- (d) Social determinants of mental health 98

III The Humanistic Science of Man

1 Preliminary Considerations 101

2 General Aims 103

3 Specific Aims 104

4 General Remarks 107

IV Is Man Lazy by Nature?

1 The Axiom of Man's Inherited Laziness 109

- (a) Socioeconomic aspects of the axiom 109
- (b) Scientific aspects of the axiom 112
- (c) Work and the axiom of man's innate passivity 114

2 The Evidence against the Axiom 118

- (a) Neurophysiological evidence 119
- (b) Evidence by experiments in animals 124
- (c) Evidence by social psychological experiments 127
 - (d) Evidence by dreaming 134
 - (e) Evidence by child development 139
 - (f) Evidence by psychology 142