

Contents

Introduction: Refugees in Modern Global History: Why ‘Refugee Voices’, Why ‘Refugeedom’?	1
1. Population Displacement and Refugee Regimes	12
Aftermaths of the First World War	13
Aftermaths of the Second World War: Europe	18
Aftermaths of the Second World War: Refugees in the Middle East	25
Aftermaths of the Second World War: South Asia and South-East Asia	29
Decolonization and Conflict in Africa	38
Conclusion	43
2. Looking for Refugees: In and Out of the Archive	47
The Archive as Institution and as Work in Progress	50
Archiving Refugees	52
Silence and Absence	58
Materiality and the Archive	62
Conclusion	64
3. Refugee Encounters	67
Crafting the Petition: Initial Approaches	69
First Impressions	74
From Rapport to Response	80
Diagnosing ‘Character’	82
Persistence and Complaint	87
Conclusion	92
4. Journeys and Destinations	95
Anticipation, Preparations, Practicalities	98
Convoluting Trajectories	105
Framing Journeys	110
Resettlement, Repatriation, and Homecoming	115
Conclusion	124
5. Emotions of Refugeedom	127
Refugeedom and Emotional Expression before and after 1945	130
The Fear Factor: A New Emotional Regime?	136
The Emotional Impact of Resettlement in the Post-War World	141
Beyond Fear	144
Materiality, Emotion, Displacement	147
Conclusion	151

6. Distinguishing Features	154
Interwar Refugees	156
European Displaced Persons	162
Partition Refugees: Categories and Distinctions	168
Palestinian Refugees	173
Post-War and Cold War Era Refugees	175
Conclusion	183
7. Refugeedom and Political Expression	186
Refugees and Politics: The Nansen Era	189
After 1945: The European Cockpit	197
Refugees and Political Survival: India and Palestine	207
UNHCR, Refugees, and Political Expression	213
Conclusion	218
Conclusions	221
Bibliography	229
Archives	229
Internet sources	229
Secondary literature	230
Index	249