

Contents

Illustrations	xi
Preface to the Revised Edition	xiii
Acknowledgements	xv
The Liszt Family Trees	xviii
Concordance Table of Cities, Towns, and Villages	xxiii

PROLOGUE

Liszt and the Literature	3
Liszt's Family Background	30

BOOK ONE: THE YOUNG PRODIGY, 1811–1829

Childhood in Hungary	53
-----------------------------	----

The Great Comet of 1811 ~ birth in Raiding ~ family hardships ~ childhood sickness ~ mistaken for dead ~ his musical awakening ~ first piano lessons from Adam Liszt ~ growing up in Hungary ~ influence of church and Gypsies ~ Adam appeals to Prince Esterházy ~ a first encounter with Czerny: "Nature herself had formed a pianist" ~ début in Oedenburg ~ triumph in Pressburg and departure for Vienna.

Vienna, 1821–1823	71
--------------------------	----

Settling down in Vienna ~ piano lessons with Czerny ~ theoretical studies with Salieri ~ Salieri's letter ~ "Franzi's" first published composition ~ début in Vienna's town hall ~ the press dub him "Little Hercules" ~ plays in the Vienna Redoutensaal ~ the myth of Beethoven's public embrace ~ a visit to Beethoven ~ a farewell journey to Hungary, May 1823: "I am Hungarian" ~ plays to the Franciscan fathers in the monastery at Pest.

Paris and the First World Tours	89
--	----

The tours begin ~ Prince Metternich intercedes ~ Liszt plays in Munich, Augsburg, Stuttgart, and Strassburg ~ arrival in France ~ friendship with the family Erard ~ Cherubini refuses to admit Liszt to the Paris Conservatoire ~ studies with Reicha and Paer instead ~ Liszt is taken up by the Paris press: "Le petit Litz" ~ two visits to England, 1824–25 ~ a letter from Adam Liszt ~ Don Sanche produced in Paris, October 1825 ~ maturing piano style: Twelve Studies ~ a third visit to England, 1827.

The Death of Liszt's Father 123

Adam Liszt dies at Boulogne-sur-Mer ~ Adam's burial ~ a letter of condolence from Count Amadé ~ alone in Boulogne.

Obscurity in Paris 129

Returns to Paris ~ likens himself to the learned dog Munito ~ supports himself and his mother by teaching ~ falls in love with a pupil, Caroline de Saint-Cricq ~ is rejected by her father ~ suffers a nervous breakdown ~ experiences longing to become a priest ~ he is reported dead ~ his obituary appears in Le Corsaire, October 23, 1828 ~ a meeting with von Lenz ~ friendship with Urhan ~ discovers French literature ~ composes his first operatic fantasy, on La Fiancée.

BOOK TWO: THE GROWING VIRTUOSO, 1830-1834

After the July Revolution 143

The last days of Restoration France ~ the "Three Glorious Days" ~ a "Revolutionary Symphony" ~ in the salons of the Faubourg St.-Germain ~ more love-affairs: Countess Adèle Laprunarède ~ Paris is struck by cholera ~ "L'Idiotie mélomane" ~ attends the meetings of the Saint-Simonists ~ visits the Abbé Félicité Lamennais at La Chênaie ~ first mature piano works ~ essay "On the Position of Artists."

A Riot of Pianists 161

Pianists galore ~ some gladiators of the keyboard ~ the workshops of Erard and Pleyel ~ the Paris Conservatoire as "piano factory" ~ the wit of Heine ~ the piano catches fire from the opera house.

Paganini 168

Paganini's virtuosity ~ his necromantic personality ~ "in league with the Devil" ~ the Casino Paganini ~ Liszt hears Paganini for the first time ~ "And I too am an artist!" ~ The Clochette Fantasy ~ the death and burials of Paganini ~ Liszt publishes an obituary of him.

Friends and Contemporaries: Berlioz and Chopin 178

Liszt and Berlioz ~ Paganini's gift of 20,000 francs ~ Liszt makes a piano arrangement of the Fantastic Symphony ~ Liszt and Chopin ~ Chopin's approach to the keyboard ~ l'affaire Pleyel ~ Alkan and Hiller.

Enter Marie d'Agoult 190

Liszt is introduced to Countess Marie d'Agoult ~ an account of their first meeting ~ her childhood and family background ~ the Flavignys ~ an unhappy marriage to Count Charles d'Agoult ~ the love-affair with Liszt develops ~ Marie visits a clairvoyant ~ Liszt and Marie elope to Switzerland.

BOOK THREE: THE YEARS OF PILGRIMAGE, 1835–1839

Elopement to Geneva 209

A tryst in Basel, June 1835 ~ arrival in Geneva ~ at the rue Tabazan ~ the first Letters of a Bachelor of Music appear ~ pursued by "Puzzi" Cohen ~ birth of Blandine ~ Liszt becomes a professor of piano at the Geneva Conservatoire ~ the Années de pèlerinage: "Suisse" ~ a picnic at Chamonix ~ Liszt plays the organ at Fribourg ~ return to Paris: the Hôtel de France ~ "An Evening with the Gods."

The Lion Shakes His Mane: Liszt's Duel with Thalberg 232

Thalberg's origins ~ his playing ~ he releases "handfuls of pearls" ~ the "three-handed" effect ~ the French newspaper war ~ Fétis champions Thalberg; Berlioz champions Liszt ~ Liszt's opinion of Thalberg's compositions ~ his "duel" with Thalberg in the salon of Princess Belgiojoso ~ the Hexaméron Variations ~ Thalberg's later years.

Switzerland and Italy 244

A visit to Nohant ~ commences his Schubert song transcriptions ~ Liszt plays for the weavers of Lyon ~ a sojourn by Lake Bellagio ~ birth of Cosima ~ a secret police report ~ he meets Ricordi and Rossini ~ a concert in La Scala ~ from Milan to Venice ~ Marie d'Agoult falls ill.

After the Flood in Hungary, 1838–1839 253

The Danube overflows its banks ~ the inundation of Pest ~ Liszt's charity concerts in Vienna ~ raises 24,000 gulden for Hungary ~ love of Hungary is reawakened ~ transcribes more Schubert songs ~ meets his relatives in Vienna ~ returns to Venice ~ quarrels with Marie d'Agoult ~ Marie's account in the Mémoires questioned ~ they move to Lake Lugano ~ Liszt's life is threatened in Milan ~ reunited with Blandine ~ birth of Daniel Liszt in Rome ~ offers to raise money for the erection of a Beethoven monument in Bonn ~ the Beethoven Committee's reply ~ compositions of the Italian period ~ Marie returns to Paris and Liszt proceeds to Vienna.

BOOK FOUR: THE YEARS OF TRANSCENDENTAL EXECUTION, 1839–1847

Liszt and the Keyboard 285

The modern piano recital is created ~ Liszt's feats of memory ~ some bad pianos ~ Liszt's decorations ~ a letter of protest to the Gazette Musicale ~ Liszt and Tsar Nicholas ~ Hans Christian Andersen hears Liszt ~ Génie oblige! ~ a letter to Adolphe Pictet ~ Liszt's approach to keyboard technique: fingering, scale-building, octaves, etc. ~ the anatomy of Liszt's hand ~ the origin of the Transcendental and the Paganini Studies ~ Liszt's expression marks and pedalling ~ his preference for Erard pianos; a letter of appreciation to Pierre Erard ~ Liszt's interpretation of the classics.

A Prodigal Returns to Hungary, 1839–1840 319

Liszt returns to Hungary ~ a triumphal reception awaits him in Pest ~ the search for Liszt's "aristocratic descent" ~ he is presented with a "Sword of Honour" by leading Hungarian noblemen: his speech of acceptance ~ the ceremony is misunderstood beyond Hungary's borders ~ Liszt takes up the pen against his critics ~ he raises money for a Hungarian National Conservatory of Music ~ he revisits the Franciscan monks in Pest ~ he receives the freedom of the city of Oedenburg ~ Liszt sees again his birthplace in Raiding ~ a visit to the Gypsies; he describes their encampment ~ the Hungarian Rhapsodies are born ~ the case of "Josi" Sárai, the Gypsy violinist.

The World Tours I: Prague, Leipzig, and London, 1840–1841 343

At Prague ~ a report in Bohemia ~ meets Robert Schumann in Dresden ~ concerts in the Leipzig Gewandhaus ~ Schumann's reviews in the Neue Zeitschrift für Musik ~ musical life in Leipzig ~ encounters with Mendelssohn ~ back in Paris ~ a visit to London, May–June 1840 ~ makes history with his "Piano Recitals" ~ a report in The Times ~ Liszt tours Britain with John Orlando Parry ~ the Parry diaries ~ Louis Lavenue, Liszt's English impresario, goes bankrupt.

The World Tours II: Berlin and St. Petersburg, 1841–1842 364

Liszt appoints Gaetano Belloni as his manager ~ friendship with Prince Felix Lichnowsky ~ on the island of Nonnenwerth ~ Liszt becomes a Freemason ~ a triumph in Berlin ~ "Lisztomania" ~ first visits to St. Petersburg and Moscow ~ Stasov's reminiscences ~ the Moscow Gypsies ~ meets Glinka and Adolf Henselt ~ the Grétry festival in Brussels ~ invested with the Cross of the Lion of Belgium ~ a cool reception in Paris.

Marie d'Agoult Becomes "Daniel Stern": Nélida versus Guermann 382

Marie d'Agoult rehabilitates herself in Paris ~ her rapprochement with the Flavigny family and Charles d'Agoult ~ the emergence of "Daniel Stern" ~ Girardin and La Presse ~ Marie's changing relationship with Liszt ~ Lola Montez ~ the birth of the novel Nélida ~ Liszt's attitude towards that book ~ the final rupture with Liszt, April–May 1844 ~ Liszt's tour of the Spanish Peninsula ~ he meets Caroline d'Artigaux in Pau ~ his concerts in Madrid, Seville, and Lisbon ~ he proposes marriage to Valentine de Cessiat.

The Beethoven Monument Unveiled in Bonn, 1845 417

Problems in Bonn ~ getting ready for the Beethoven Festival ~ Liszt demands an auditorium ~ of mice and men ~ some criticism from Schindler ~ Queen Victoria arrives to see Beethoven's statue unveiled ~ a ceremony in the sun ~ a drunken brawl in the Golden Star ~ Liszt is attacked for his handling of the festival.

The World Tours III: Transylvania, Russia, and Turkey, 1846–1847 427

The curse of Mazeppa ~ taken ill in Cologne ~ returns to Hungary and stays with Antal Augusz in Szekszárd ~ Liszt tours Transylvania ~ the "King of the Gypsies" ~ receives the freedom of the city of Arad ~ two weeks in Bucharest ~ a last sojourn in Russia ~ meets Princess Carolyne von Sayn-Wittgenstein ~ travels to Constantinople and plays before Sultan Abdul Medjid Khan ~ last concerts in Odessa and Elisabetgrad ~ retires from the concert platform.

*Appendix: Catalogue of works which Liszt played in public,
1838–48, compiled by himself* 445

Sources Consulted in the Preparation of Volume I 449

Index 463