

CONTENTS

Acknowledgements	xiv
Editorial Conventions	xv
Preface	xvi
Lord (Michael) Dobbs

INTRODUCTION: THE CHURCHILL LETTERS	xvii
Allen Packwood and James Drake

CHAPTER ONE: THE EARLY YEARS (1883-94)	I
---	---

'I hope you will come and see me soon'	I
---	---

1: from Winston to his mother, Lady Randolph Churchill, 17 June 1883

'My dear Oom'	4
----------------------	---

2: from Winston to Mrs Everest, October 1884

'You must be happy without me'	6
---------------------------------------	---

3: from Winston to Lady Randolph, 21 January 1885

'I know that you are very busy indeed'	7
---	---

*4: from Winston to his father, Lord Randolph Churchill,
5 April 1885*

'I feel as if I could cry at every thing'	9
--	---

5: from Winston to Mrs Everest, 1886

'I can think of nothing else but the Jubilee'	10
--	----

6: from Winston to Lady Randolph, 11 June 1887

7: from the same, 12 June 1887

'It is that thoughtlessness of yours which is your greatest enemy'	14
8: from Lady Randolph to her son, Winston, 12 June 1890
9: from Winston to Lady Randolph, 19 June 1890
'Capital girl – good old hero – splendid villain'	18
10: from Winston to Lady Randolph, 19 September 1890
'I will venture to further ventilate my grievances'	21
11: from Winston writing as 'De Profundis' to the editor of The Harrovian, November 1891
'A mere social wastrel'	22
12: from Lady Randolph to Winston, 7 August 1893
13: from Lord Randolph to Winston, 9 August 1893
14: from Winston to Lady Randolph, 17 September 1893
'Papa wrote me a long letter about the watch and seems to be very cross'	28
15: from Lord Randolph to Winston, 21 April 1894
16: from Winston to Lady Randolph, 24 April 1894
'I had never realised how ill Papa had been'	31
17: from Winston to Lady Randolph, 2 November 1894
CHAPTER TWO: THOUGHTS AND ADVENTURES (1895–99)	34
'It is a fine game to play – the game of politics'	34
1: from Winston to Lady Randolph, 16 August 1895
'What an extraordinary people the Americans are'	36
2: from Winston to his brother, Jack Churchill, 15 November 1895
'Burn this Jack without showing to anyone'	39
3: from Winston to the Reverend James Welldon, Headteacher at Harrow, 16 December 1896 (draft)

'To beat my sword into a paper cutter'	42
4: from Winston to Lady Randolph, 23 December 1896
'You cannot but feel ashamed of yourself'	44
5: from Lady Randolph to Winston, 26 February 1897
'I am a Liberal in all but name'	47
6: from Winston to Lady Randolph, 6 April 1897
'I have faith in my star'	51
7: from Winston to Lady Randolph, 5 September 1897
8: from the same, 19 September 1897
'It is not so much a question of brains as of character & originality'	55
9: from Winston to Lady Randolph, 26 January 1898
10: from the same, 15 July 1898
'We both know what is good – and we both like to have it'	60
11: from Winston to Lady Randolph, 28 January 1898
'All this in 120 seconds'	62
12: from Winston to Colonel Sir Ian Hamilton, 16 September 1898
'I do not consider that your Government was justified in holding me'	67
13: from Winston to Louis de Souza, 11 December 1899
CHAPTER THREE: PUTTING DOWN ROOTS (1900–1914)	70
'My place is here'	70
1: from Winston to Pamela Plowden, 28 January 1900 (James Drake Collection)

'I do not feel I would be breaking up our home'	75
2: from Lady Randolph to Winston, 26 May 1900
'I hate the Tory party – their men, their words, & their methods'	77
3: from Winston to Hugh Cecil, 24 October 1903 (draft)
'A girl with so much intellectual quality'	80
4: from Winston to Clementine Hozier, 16 April 1908
5: from the same, 27 April 1908
'I do not love & will never love any woman in the world but you'	84
6: from Winston to Clementine, 10 November 1909
'We are getting into v[er]y gr[ea]t peril over Female Suffrage'	86
7: from Winston to Alexander Murray, 18 December 1911
'The strict observance of the great traditions of the sea towards women & children reflects nothing but honour upon our civilisation'	89
8: from Winston to Clementine, 18 April 1912
'I will not fly any more'	91
9: from Winston to Clementine, 6 June 1914
CHAPTER FOUR: THE WORLD CRISIS (1914–18)	94
'Everything trends towards catastrophe and collapse'	94
1: from Winston to Clementine, 28 July 1914
2: from the same, 31 July 1914
'The caterpillar system would enable trenches to be crossed quite easily'	100
3: from Winston to Herbert Asquith, 5 January 1915

'D-mn the Dardanelles! They'll be our grave!'	102
4: from Admiral Fisher to Winston, 5 April 1915
5: from Winston to Admiral Fisher, 8 April 1915
'The Dardanelles has run on like a Greek tragedy'	106
6: from Winston to Admiral Sir John Jellicoe, 1 June 1915
'I am a spirit confident of my rights'	108
7: from Winston to Clementine, 17 July 1915
'I have found happiness & content such as I have not known for many months'	111
8: from Winston to Clementine, 23 November 1915
9: from the same, 25 November 1915
'The cruel politics of today'	115
10: from Winston to Clementine, 10 January 1916
11: from the same, 13 January 1916
'The War is a terrible searcher of character'	119
12: from Clementine to Winston, 16 March 1916
13: from the same, 24 March 1916
'The party of the future might be formed'	124
14: from Winston to Frederick (F. E.) Smith, 6 April 1916
15: from the same, 8 April 1916
'Death seems as commonplace & as little alarming as the undertaker'	127
16: from Winston to Clementine, 23 February 1918
CHAPTER FIVE: THE EMERGING STATESMAN (1921–39)	131
'These last weeks have been cruel'	131
1: from Winston to Lord Northcliffe, 1 July 1921

'I cannot stir a yard to defend myself'	132
2: from Winston to J. C. Robertson, President of the Dundee Liberal Association, 27 October 1922
'No more champagne is to be bought'	136
3: from Winston to Clementine, late summer 1926
'A general strike is a challenge to the State, to the Constitution and to the nation'	140
4: from Winston to Sir James Hawkey, 16 November 1926
'Most of ... our lives are over now'	142
5: from Winston to Hugo Baring, 8 February 1931
'Germany is now the greatest armed power in Europe'	145
6: from Winston to Clementine, 13 April 1935
'Luckily I have plenty of things to do to keep me from chewing the cud too much'	148
7: from Winston to Clementine, 30 December 1935
'How melancholy that we have this helpless Baldwin and his valets in absolute possession of all power!'	151
8: from Winston to Clementine, 15–17 January 1936
'A dozen bottles of sunshine'	153
9: from Winston to Lord Horne of Slamannan, 27 January 1936
'This Spanish business cuts across my thoughts'	154
10: from Winston to Anthony Eden, 7 August 1936
'The combination of public and private stresses is the hardest of all to endure'	156
11: from Winston to Stanley Baldwin, 5 December 1936
'I thought y[our] remark singularly unkind, offensive, & untrue'	159
12: from Winston to his son, Randolph Churchill, 14 February 1938

'I am in no way responsible for what has happened'	161
13: from Winston to Henry Page Croft, October or November 1938 (draft)
'Can't we get at it?'	163
14: from Winston to Neville Chamberlain, 30 August 1939 (draft)
15: from Winston to Sir Samuel Hoare, 8 October 1939
16: from Winston to Lord Halifax, 1 November 1939
CHAPTER SIX: THE FINEST HOUR (1940–45)	169
'I am under no illusions about what lies ahead'	169
1: from Winston to Neville Chamberlain, 10 May 1940
'This honour was deserved by your successful execution of a most difficult task'	171
2: from Winston to Vice-Admiral Sir Bertram Ramsay, 17 June 1940
'There is a danger of your being generally disliked'	172
3: from Clementine to Winston, 27 June 1940
'Never surrendering or scuttling her Fleet'	175
4: from Winston to President Roosevelt, 31 August 1940
'It's a grand life, if we don't weaken'	176
5: from Winston to Neville Chamberlain, 20 October 1940
'Sail on, O Ship of State'	179
6: from President Roosevelt to Winston: 20 January 1941
'Now or never. "A nation once again"'	181
7: from Winston to Éamon de Valera, 8 December 1941
'Burn this letter when you have read it'	182
8: from Winston to President Roosevelt, 25 February 1942
'I do not want the lion at the moment'	184
9: from Winston to the Duke of Devonshire, 13 February 1943

'A man who has to play an effective part in taking, with the highest responsibility, grave and terrible decisions of war may need the refreshment of adventure'	186
10: from King George VI to Winston, 2 June 1944
11: from Winston to King George VI, 3 June 1944
'Ever since 1907, I have in good times and bad times, been a sincere friend of France'	190
12: from Winston to General Charles de Gaulle, 16 June 1944
'Thus two-thirds of our forces are being mis-employed for American convenience, and the other third is under American Command'	192
13: from Winston to Clementine, 17 August 1944
'No more let us falter! From Malta to Yalta! Let nobody alter!'	195
14: telegram from Winston to President Roosevelt, 1 January 1945
'You may be sure I shall always endeavour to profit by your counsels'	197
15: from Clement Attlee to Winston, 19 January 1945
16: from Winston to Attlee, 20 January 1945 (draft, not sent)
17: from Winston to Attlee, 22 January 1945
CHAPTER SEVEN: AFTERMATH AND LEGACY (1945-64)	203
'Here is the rock of safety'	203
1: from Winston to Ernest Bevin, 13 November 1945
'It will be a great shock to the British nation to find themselves, all of a sudden, stripped of their Empire'	206
2: from Winston to Clement Attlee, 1 May 1946 (draft)

'I revived the ancient and glorious conception of a United Europe'	208
3: from Winston to Léon Blum, 7 April 1948
'Intervention by a great state in the internal affairs of a small one is always questionable'	212
4: from Winston to President Truman, 29 June 1949
5: from President Truman to Winston, 2 July 1949
'For whoever wins there will be nothing but bitterness and strife'	215
6: from Winston to Clementine, 19 January 1950
'I am writing to ask if you could consider giving me your kind services so that I may have some puppies by you'	218
7: from Rufus of Chartwell to Jennifer of Post Green, March 1955
'To resign is not to retire'	219
8: from Winston to President Eisenhower, April 1955 (draft)
'It will be an act of folly, on which our whole civilisation may founder'	221
9: from Winston to President Eisenhower, 22 November 1956 (draft)
'Even a joke in my poor taste can be enjoyed'	224
10: from Francis Crick to Winston, 12 October 1961
'I shall persevere'	226
11: from Winston to Clementine, 18 June 1963
'I owe you what every Englishman, woman & child does – liberty itself'	228
12: from Mary Soames to her father, Winston, 8 June 1964
About the Editors	231
Index	233