

CONTENTS

Acknowledgements	xiv
Editorial Conventions	xv
Preface	xvi
Lord (Michael) Dobbs
INTRODUCTION: THE CHURCHILL LETTERS	xvii
Allen Packwood and James Drake
CHAPTER ONE: THE EARLY YEARS (1883-94)	I
'I hope you will come and see me soon'	I
1: from Winston to his mother, Lady Randolph Churchill, 17 June 1883
'My dear Oom'	4
2: from Winston to Mrs Everest, October 1884
'You must be happy without me'	6
3: from Winston to Lady Randolph, 21 January 1885
'I know that you are very busy indeed'	7
4: from Winston to his father, Lord Randolph Churchill, 5 April 1885
'I feel as if I could cry at every thing'	9
5: from Winston to Mrs Everest, 1886
'I can think of nothing else but the Jubilee'	10
6: from Winston to Lady Randolph, 11 June 1887
7: from the same, 12 June 1887

'It is that thoughtlessness of yours which is your greatest enemy'	14
8: from Lady Randolph to her son, Winston, 12 June 1890
9: from Winston to Lady Randolph, 19 June 1890
'Capital girl – good old hero – splendid villain'	18
10: from Winston to Lady Randolph, 19 September 1890
'I will venture to further ventilate my grievances'	21
11: from Winston writing as 'De Profundis' to the editor of The Harrovian, November 1891
'A mere social wastrel'	22
12: from Lady Randolph to Winston, 7 August 1893
13: from Lord Randolph to Winston, 9 August 1893
14: from Winston to Lady Randolph, 17 September 1893
'Papa wrote me a long letter about the watch and seems to be very cross'	28
15: from Lord Randolph to Winston, 21 April 1894
16: from Winston to Lady Randolph, 24 April 1894
'I had never realised how ill Papa had been'	31
17: from Winston to Lady Randolph, 2 November 1894
CHAPTER TWO: THOUGHTS AND ADVENTURES (1895–99)	34
'It is a fine game to play – the game of politics'	34
1: from Winston to Lady Randolph, 16 August 1895
'What an extraordinary people the Americans are'	36
2: from Winston to his brother, Jack Churchill, 15 November 1895
'Burn this Jack without showing to anyone'	39
3: from Winston to the Reverend James Welldon, Headteacher at Harrow, 16 December 1896 (draft)

'To beat my sword into a paper cutter'	42
4: from Winston to Lady Randolph, 23 December 1896
'You cannot but feel ashamed of yourself'	44
5: from Lady Randolph to Winston, 26 February 1897
'I am a Liberal in all but name'	47
6: from Winston to Lady Randolph, 6 April 1897
'I have faith in my star'	51
7: from Winston to Lady Randolph, 5 September 1897
8: from the same, 19 September 1897
'It is not so much a question of brains as of character &amp; originality'	55
9: from Winston to Lady Randolph, 26 January 1898
10: from the same, 15 July 1898
'We both know what is good – and we both like to have it'	60
11: from Winston to Lady Randolph, 28 January 1898
'All this in 120 seconds'	62
12: from Winston to Colonel Sir Ian Hamilton, 16 September 1898
'I do not consider that your Government was justified in holding me'	67
13: from Winston to Louis de Souza, 11 December 1899
CHAPTER THREE: PUTTING DOWN ROOTS (1900–1914)	70
'My place is here'	70
1: from Winston to Pamela Plowden, 28 January 1900 (James Drake Collection)

'I do not feel I would be breaking up our home'	75
2: from Lady Randolph to Winston, 26 May 1900
'I hate the Tory party – their men, their words, &amp; their methods'	77
3: from Winston to Hugh Cecil, 24 October 1903 (draft)
'A girl with so much intellectual quality'	80
4: from Winston to Clementine Hozier, 16 April 1908
5: from the same, 27 April 1908
'I do not love &amp; will never love any woman in the world but you'	84
6: from Winston to Clementine, 10 November 1909
'We are getting into v[er]y gr[ea]t peril over Female Suffrage'	86
7: from Winston to Alexander Murray, 18 December 1911
'The strict observance of the great traditions of the sea towards women &amp; children reflects nothing but honour upon our civilisation'	89
8: from Winston to Clementine, 18 April 1912
'I will not fly any more'	91
9: from Winston to Clementine, 6 June 1914
CHAPTER FOUR: THE WORLD CRISIS (1914–18)	94
'Everything trends towards catastrophe and collapse'	94
1: from Winston to Clementine, 28 July 1914
2: from the same, 31 July 1914
'The caterpillar system would enable trenches to be crossed quite easily'	100
3: from Winston to Herbert Asquith, 5 January 1915

'D-mn the Dardanelles! They'll be our grave!'	102
4: from Admiral Fisher to Winston, 5 April 1915
5: from Winston to Admiral Fisher, 8 April 1915
'The Dardanelles has run on like a Greek tragedy'	106
6: from Winston to Admiral Sir John Jellicoe, 1 June 1915
'I am a spirit confident of my rights'	108
7: from Winston to Clementine, 17 July 1915
'I have found happiness &amp; content such as I have not known for many months'	111
8: from Winston to Clementine, 23 November 1915
9: from the same, 25 November 1915
'The cruel politics of today'	115
10: from Winston to Clementine, 10 January 1916
11: from the same, 13 January 1916
'The War is a terrible searcher of character'	119
12: from Clementine to Winston, 16 March 1916
13: from the same, 24 March 1916
'The party of the future might be formed'	124
14: from Winston to Frederick (F. E.) Smith, 6 April 1916
15: from the same, 8 April 1916
'Death seems as commonplace &amp; as little alarming as the undertaker'	127
16: from Winston to Clementine, 23 February 1918
CHAPTER FIVE: THE EMERGING STATESMAN (1921–39)	131
'These last weeks have been cruel'	131
1: from Winston to Lord Northcliffe, 1 July 1921

- 'I cannot stir a yard to defend myself' 132
2: from Winston to J. C. Robertson, President of the Dundee Liberal Association, 27 October 1922
- 'No more champagne is to be bought' 136
3: from Winston to Clementine, late summer 1926
- 'A general strike is a challenge to the State, to the Constitution and to the nation' 140
4: from Winston to Sir James Hawkey, 16 November 1926
- 'Most of ... our lives are over now' 142
5: from Winston to Hugo Baring, 8 February 1931
- 'Germany is now the greatest armed power in Europe' 145
6: from Winston to Clementine, 13 April 1935
- 'Luckily I have plenty of things to do to keep me from chewing the cud too much' 148
7: from Winston to Clementine, 30 December 1935
- 'How melancholy that we have this helpless Baldwin and his valets in absolute possession of all power!' 151
8: from Winston to Clementine, 15–17 January 1936
- 'A dozen bottles of sunshine' 153
9: from Winston to Lord Horne of Slamannan, 27 January 1936
- 'This Spanish business cuts across my thoughts' 154
10: from Winston to Anthony Eden, 7 August 1936
- 'The combination of public and private stresses is the hardest of all to endure' 156
11: from Winston to Stanley Baldwin, 5 December 1936
- 'I thought y[our] remark singularly unkind, offensive, & untrue' 159
12: from Winston to his son, Randolph Churchill, 14 February 1938

- 'I am in no way responsible for what has happened' 161
13: from Winston to Henry Page Croft, October or November 1938 (draft)
- 'Can't we get at it?' 163
14: from Winston to Neville Chamberlain, 30 August 1939 (draft)
15: from Winston to Sir Samuel Hoare, 8 October 1939
16: from Winston to Lord Halifax, 1 November 1939
- CHAPTER SIX: THE FINEST HOUR (1940–45) 169
- 'I am under no illusions about what lies ahead' 169
1: from Winston to Neville Chamberlain, 10 May 1940
- 'This honour was deserved by your successful execution of a most difficult task' 171
2: from Winston to Vice-Admiral Sir Bertram Ramsay, 17 June 1940
- 'There is a danger of your being generally disliked' 172
3: from Clementine to Winston, 27 June 1940
- 'Never surrendering or scuttling her Fleet' 175
4: from Winston to President Roosevelt, 31 August 1940
- 'It's a grand life, if we don't weaken' 176
5: from Winston to Neville Chamberlain, 20 October 1940
- 'Sail on, O Ship of State' 179
6: from President Roosevelt to Winston: 20 January 1941
- 'Now or never. "A nation once again"' 181
7: from Winston to Éamon de Valera, 8 December 1941
- 'Burn this letter when you have read it' 182
8: from Winston to President Roosevelt, 25 February 1942
- 'I do not want the lion at the moment' 184
9: from Winston to the Duke of Devonshire, 13 February 1943

- 'A man who has to play an effective part in taking, with the highest responsibility, grave and terrible decisions of war may need the refreshment of adventure' 186
 10: from King George VI to Winston, 2 June 1944
 11: from Winston to King George VI, 3 June 1944
- 'Ever since 1907, I have in good times and bad times, been a sincere friend of France' 190
 12: from Winston to General Charles de Gaulle, 16 June 1944
- 'Thus two-thirds of our forces are being mis-employed for American convenience, and the other third is under American Command' 192
 13: from Winston to Clementine, 17 August 1944
- 'No more let us falter! From Malta to Yalta! Let nobody alter!' 195
 14: telegram from Winston to President Roosevelt, 1 January 1945
- 'You may be sure I shall always endeavour to profit by your counsels' 197
 15: from Clement Attlee to Winston, 19 January 1945
 16: from Winston to Attlee, 20 January 1945 (draft, not sent)
 17: from Winston to Attlee, 22 January 1945
- CHAPTER SEVEN: AFTERMATH AND LEGACY (1945-64) 203
- 'Here is the rock of safety' 203
 1: from Winston to Ernest Bevin, 13 November 1945
- 'It will be a great shock to the British nation to find themselves, all of a sudden, stripped of their Empire' 206
 2: from Winston to Clement Attlee, 1 May 1946 (draft)

- 'I revived the ancient and glorious conception of a United Europe' 208
 3: from Winston to Léon Blum, 7 April 1948
- 'Intervention by a great state in the internal affairs of a small one is always questionable' 212
 4: from Winston to President Truman, 29 June 1949
 5: from President Truman to Winston, 2 July 1949
- 'For whoever wins there will be nothing but bitterness and strife' 215
 6: from Winston to Clementine, 19 January 1950
- 'I am writing to ask if you could consider giving me your kind services so that I may have some puppies by you' 218
 7: from Rufus of Chartwell to Jennifer of Post Green, March 1955
- 'To resign is not to retire' 219
 8: from Winston to President Eisenhower, April 1955 (draft)
- 'It will be an act of folly, on which our whole civilisation may founder' 221
 9: from Winston to President Eisenhower, 22 November 1956 (draft)
- 'Even a joke in my poor taste can be enjoyed' 224
 10: from Francis Crick to Winston, 12 October 1961
- 'I shall persevere' 226
 11: from Winston to Clementine, 18 June 1963
- 'I owe you what every Englishman, woman & child does – liberty itself' 228
 12: from Mary Soames to her father, Winston, 8 June 1964
- About the Editors* 231
Index 233