

Contents

- Robert B. Pynsent: What about the Slovaks / 9
- Juraj Špitzer: Scepticism and Hope / 27
(Translated by Chris Cheal)
- Rudolf Chmel: The Slovak Question in the 20th century / 59
(Translated by Chris Cheal)
- Ivan Kamenec: Phenomenon Of Fear
In Modern Slovak History? / 97
(Translated by Olga Horská and Larisa Schoenbeck-Morrison)
- Lubomír Lipták: Monuments of Political Changes and Political Changes of Monuments / 111
(Translated by Sharon Miklošová)
- Lajos Greidel: The Ghosts of Central Europe / 155
(Translated by Steve Anthony)
- Miroslav Kusý: The Dual Identity of a National Minority / 165
(Translated by Chris Cheal)
- Martin M. Šimečka: Story about a Language / 179
(Translated by Peter Petro)
- Miroslav Marcelli: The City – A Meeting Place / 187
(Translated by Mária Švecová)
- Peter Macsovszky: But there's nothing here! / 205
(Translated by Sharon Miklošová)

- Jozef Kelemen: On the Post-Modern Machine / 221
(Translated by Sharon Miklošová)
- Peter Michalovič: Our Words Are Our Worlds / 245
(Translated by Robert Meško)
- Peter Sýkora: Bioethics in Liberal-Democratic Societies / 255
(Translated by Sharon Miklošová)
- František Šebej: On Rats and People and on True-to-Breed Shaggy Dogs / 275
(Translated by Sharon Miklošová)
- Peter Zajac: The Language of the Time
Ten Years After / 289
(Translated by Sharon Miklošová)
- Martin Bútorá: The Third Sector:
The Other Invisible Hand / 305
(Translated by Thomas W. Skladony)
- Pavel Vilikovský: What use is Viktor Lustig to us? / 351
(Translated by Sharon Miklošová)