

in Charter 77, where the members of the subsequent team founded the Committee Against Racism, Anti-Semitism and Xenophobia, and the NGO (non-profit, non-governmental organization) Tolerance (1992). As a part of the NGO Tolerance a project Families After Holocaust was established where we – the therapists and members of such families – used to meet and study. After Irene Bloomfield's death we established the tradition of awarding the money for the award to the family and organization for their work and study. After Irene Bloomfield's death we established the tradition of awarding the money for the award to the family and organization for their work and study. I have chosen the word "hidden" to describe the children of Holocaust survivors who were not in the training facility called the Rafael Institute (2006).

We are presenting three consecutive studies of how a small human group – a family – can be affected by the violence of great historical events. The first study was conducted by the therapist with a group of people whose families had survived the Holocaust. We founded the group in 1977 and over time their lives have been changed. The group members' life stories and respect belong to these children of Holocaust survivors. The second study was conducted with the children of Holocaust survivors who were not in the training facility called the Rafael Institute (2006).

CONTENTS

Foreword: Helena Klímová	4
Helena Klímová: The Totalitarian System and Narcissistic Injury: Holocaust Consequences as a Special Case (in: Group Analysis 2007 40: 366)	6
Helena Klímová et al: The influence of Holocaust on “Hidden Children” and on the second generation (Vliv holocaustu na “ukrývané děti” a na druhou generaci, in: Psychoterapie 2008/2)	19
Helena Klímová, Věra Roubalová: The Transgenerational Transfer of Trauma and the Possibility of Recovery – experience with group therapy for the descendants of Holocaust victims (Transgenerační přenos traumatu a možnost uzdravování – zkušenost se skupinovou terapií pro potomky obětí holocaustu, in: Psychosom 2011/1)	29