

Contents

- 1 Is American Masculinity a Thing? 10
American manhood, viewed from the outside

- 2 The Bewildered and the Numbed 14
Another view from the outside:
D. H. Lawrence, Studies in Classic American Literature
A view from the inside:
Leslie Fiedler, Love and Death in the American Novel
Andrew Kimbrell, The Masculine Mystique
American Manhood as an Ordeal and Sacrifice 21
Henry David Thoreau, Walden
John Ford, The Man Who Shot Liberty Valance
Early Definitions 31
Alexis de Tocqueville, Democracy in America
Stephen Crane, The Red Badge of Courage

- 3 Masculine Powerlessness and Self-Doubt vs. Lady Brett Ashley's Magic 42
Ernest Hemingway, The Sun Also Rises
A Male Melodrama in the Time of War 51
Ernest Hemingway, A Farewell to Arms

- 4 Conflicting Masculinities, Conflicting Aspirations 58
Norman Mailer, The Naked and the Dead
Searching for a Firm Footing in a Society of Abundance 67
Mickey Spillane, I, the Jury
Alfred Kinsey, Sexual Behavior in the Human Male
The Unexpected Inspiration 76
Jack Kerouac, On the Road
Norman Mailer, The White Negro
The Failure of Hypermasculinity 82
Norman Mailer, An American Dream

5	What Price Manliness?	90
	William Eastlake, The Bamboo Bed
	Ron Kovic, Born on the Fourth of July
	The Success of Rambo's Spectacle of Masculinity	97
	First Blood; Rambo: First Blood Part II
6	The Problem with Unreflective Staunch Manliness	104
	Tim O'Brien, If I Die in a Combat Zone and Northern Lights
	The Collateral Damage of Imploding Masculinity	112
	Tim O'Brien, The Nuclear Age
	Vietnam Coming Home: Can History Be Erased and Forgotten?	120
	Tim O'Brien, In the Lake of the Woods
	Learning to Let It Go	128
	Tim O'Brien, Tomcat in Love and July, July
7	A Wartime Hero Is Something to Be . . . Or Have We Proven Otherwise?	140
	Works Cited	147