

Contents

|                                                         |                                                                                                        |           |
|---------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------|
| 1                                                | Inside Pangea: A Brief Introduction to the Variscan Orogen in Central Europe .....              | 1  |
|                                                         | Ulf Linnemann                                                                                          |           |
|                                                         | References .....                                                                                       | 9  |
| Part I Building Blocks North of the Rheic Suture |                                                                                                        |           |
| 2                                                | Terra Incognita—The Hidden Basement of Northern Central Europe Revealed by Deep Boreholes ..... | 15 |
|                                                         | Karsten Obst                                                                                           |           |
| 2.1                                                     | Introduction .....                                                                                     | 15        |
| 2.2                                                     | The Structural Framework of the Northern Variscan Foreland .....                                       | 16        |
| 2.2.1                                                   | Crustal Domains .....                                                                                  | 16        |
| 2.2.2                                                   | The Precambrian Basement of the Southern Baltic Sea Area ....                                          | 17        |
| 2.3                                                     | Formation of the Mid-European Caledonides .....                                                        | 20        |
| 2.3.1                                                   | Plate Tectonics and Deformation History .....                                                          | 20        |
| 2.3.2                                                   | Lithological Units and Orogenic Evolution of the Rügen Caledonides .....                               | 21        |
| 2.3.3                                                   | Lithology and Deformation of Pre-Devonian Sediments in the Schleswig Caledonides .....                 | 25        |
| 2.3.4                                                   | Ordovician and Silurian Sedimentary Rocks South of the Schleswig and Rügen Caledonides .....           | 27        |
| 2.4                                                     | Variscan Orogenic Features of the Northern Foreland .....                                              | 27        |
| 2.4.1                                                   | The Rhenohercynian Basin .....                                                                         | 27        |
| 2.4.2                                                   | Devonian Old Red and Marine Transgressions in the Rügen Basin .....                                    | 28        |
| 2.4.3                                                   | Lower Carboniferous Sedimentary Rocks of the Rhenohercynian Realm .....                                | 30        |
| 2.4.4                                                   | Lower Carboniferous Deposits of the Northern Variscan Foreland .....                                   | 33        |
| 2.4.5                                                   | Variscan Compression and Upper Carboniferous Foreland Basin Development .....                          | 34        |
| 2.4.6                                                   | Upper Carboniferous Deposits in the Rügen Area .....                                                   | 37        |
| 2.5                                                     | Final Remarks .....                                                                                    | 37        |
|                                                         | References .....                                                                                       | 39        |
| 3                                                | The Ardenne .....                                                                               | 43 |
|                                                         | Alain Herbosch and Frédéric Boulvain                                                                   |           |
| 3.1                                                     | Introduction .....                                                                                     | 43        |
| 3.2                                                     | The Caledonian Basement .....                                                                          | 44        |
| 3.2.1                                                   | General Framework .....                                                                                | 44        |
| 3.2.2                                                   | The Brabant Massif and the Condroz Inlier .....                                                        | 44        |
| 3.2.3                                                   | The Ardenne Allochthon Basement .....                                                                  | 56        |

|        |                                                                                                                   |     |
|--------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| 3.2.4  | Magmatism in the Avalonian Basement: Description, Age, and Geochemistry . . . . .                                 | 63  |
| 3.2.5  | U–Pb Detrital Zircon Ages and the Source of the Ardenne Basement Sediments . . . . .                              | 65  |
| 3.2.6  | Discussion and Interpretation of the Ardenne Basement. . . . .                                                    | 69  |
| 3.2.7  | Conclusions . . . . .                                                                                             | 75  |
| 3.2.8  | Perspectives . . . . .                                                                                            | 77  |
| 3.3    | The Upper Paleozoic Variscan Cycle . . . . .                                                                      | 77  |
| 3.3.1  | General Framework . . . . .                                                                                       | 77  |
| 3.3.2  | The Lower Devonian: From Continental to Shallow Marine Detrital Formations . . . . .                              | 77  |
| 3.3.3  | The Middle Devonian: A Transition from Marine Detrital Sediments to Marine Carbonates . . . . .                   | 80  |
| 3.3.4  | The Upper Devonian: Mixed Carbonate-Detrital Marine Formations . . . . .                                          | 81  |
| 3.3.5  | The Dinantian: A Restart of the Carbonate Factory . . . . .                                                       | 85  |
| 3.3.6  | The Namurian: From Marine to Paralic Detrital Formations . . . .                                                  | 87  |
| 3.3.7  | The Westphalian: Paralic Detrital Formations and Coal Measures. . . . .                                           | 87  |
| 3.3.8  | Magmatism and Metamorphism . . . . .                                                                              | 88  |
| 3.3.9  | The Variscan Orogeny in Belgium. . . . .                                                                          | 89  |
| 3.3.10 | Conclusions . . . . .                                                                                             | 94  |
| 3.4    | The Post-Orogenic Times . . . . .                                                                                 | 95  |
| 3.5    | Overall Conclusions . . . . .                                                                                     | 96  |
|        | References . . . . .                                                                                              | 98  |
| 4      | The Rhenish Massif (Rheinisches Schiefergebirge) . . . . .                                                 | 107 |
|        | Peter Königshof, Ulrich Jansen, Ulf Linnemann, and Katja Mende                                                    |     |
| 4.1    | Introduction. . . . .                                                                                             | 108 |
| 4.2    | Pre-Devonian Inliers and Units—The Avalonian Basement of the Rhenish Massif . . . . .                             | 110 |
| 4.3    | Early Devonian: From Terrestrial and Coastal to Open-Marine Facies . . . .                                        | 115 |
| 4.3.1  | Overview . . . . .                                                                                                | 115 |
| 4.3.2  | Nearshore Facies Settings . . . . .                                                                               | 117 |
| 4.3.3  | Spatio-Temporal Distribution of Early Devonian Facies Settings . . . . .                                          | 120 |
| 4.4    | Early Devonian Volcanic Rocks . . . . .                                                                           | 122 |
| 4.5    | Middle Devonian and Early Late Devonian (Frasnian): Tropical Carbonate Environments—Overview. . . . .             | 122 |
| 4.5.1  | Initial Reef Developments . . . . .                                                                               | 124 |
| 4.5.2  | Local Distribution of Reefal Limestones. . . . .                                                                  | 126 |
| 4.5.3  | Extinction of Reefs in the Rhenish Massif . . . . .                                                               | 131 |
| 4.6    | The Givetian-Frasnian/Famennian Volcanic Cycle. . . . .                                                           | 132 |
| 4.7    | Late Devonian . . . . .                                                                                           | 133 |
| 4.7.1  | Biotic Change . . . . .                                                                                           | 133 |
| 4.7.2  | Pelagic Carbonates and Milankovitch Cyclicity . . . . .                                                           | 134 |
| 4.8    | The Mississippian Volcanic Cycle . . . . .                                                                        | 135 |
| 4.9    | Mississippian—Pennsylvanian: From Deep-Water Facies Settings to the Variscan Flysch- and Foreland Basin . . . . . | 135 |
| 4.9.1  | Tournaisian to Late Viséan—A Complex Starved Basin. . . . .                                                       | 135 |
| 4.9.2  | Namurian to Late Westphalian—Paralic Foreland Sedimentation . . . . .                                             | 137 |

|        |                                                                                                                                                                 |            |
|--------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| 4.10   | Autochthonous and Allochthonous Units—A Structural Patchwork in the Eastern Rhenish Massif. . . . .                                                             | 137        |
| 4.10.1 | Renohercynian Allochthonous Units of the Eastern Rhenish Massif . . . . .                                                                                       | 139        |
| 4.10.2 | Armorican Allochthonous Units of the Eastern Rhenish Massif . . . . .                                                                                           | 140        |
| 4.11   | The Rhenish Massif in a Plate-Tectonic Context . . . . .                                                                                                        | 142        |
|        | References . . . . .                                                                                                                                            | 144        |
| 5      | The Harz Mountains and the Flechtingen Hills (Germany)—Geotectonic Processes on the Southwestern Margin of Avalonia. . . . .                             | 157 |
|        | Ulf Linnemann, Maren Zweig, Mandy Zieger-Hofmann, Tim Vietor, Johannes Zieger, Andreas Gärtner, Jessica Haschke, Rita Krause, Katja Mende, and Friedhart Knolle |            |
| 5.1    | Introduction. . . . .                                                                                                                                           | 157        |
| 5.2    | Harz Mountains. . . . .                                                                                                                                         | 158        |
| 5.3    | Flechtingen Hills. . . . .                                                                                                                                      | 163        |
| 5.4    | Plate Tectonic Evolution . . . . .                                                                                                                              | 168        |
|        | References . . . . .                                                                                                                                            | 170        |
| 6      | The Variscan Foreland Basin in the Ruhr Area . . . . .                                                                                                   | 173 |
|        | Volker Wrede                                                                                                                                                    |            |
| 6.1    | Introduction—The Subvariscan Zone. . . . .                                                                                                                      | 173        |
| 6.2    | Basin Configuration . . . . .                                                                                                                                   | 175        |
| 6.3    | Sedimentary Processes . . . . .                                                                                                                                 | 176        |
| 6.4    | Stratigraphy. . . . .                                                                                                                                           | 181        |
| 6.4.1  | Stratigraphic Concept . . . . .                                                                                                                                 | 181        |
| 6.4.2  | Ruhr Basin . . . . .                                                                                                                                            | 182        |
| 6.4.3  | Osnabrück Region . . . . .                                                                                                                                      | 183        |
| 6.4.4  | Aachen and South Limburg Coalfields . . . . .                                                                                                                   | 183        |
| 6.5    | Fossil Record. . . . .                                                                                                                                          | 184        |
| 6.6    | Tectonic Structure . . . . .                                                                                                                                    | 187        |
| 6.7    | Conclusions. . . . .                                                                                                                                            | 192        |
|        | References . . . . .                                                                                                                                            | 193        |
| 7      | The Holy Cross Mountains. . . . .                                                                                                                        | 199 |
|        | Andrzej Konon and Wojciech Kozłowski                                                                                                                            |            |
| 7.1    | Introduction. . . . .                                                                                                                                           | 199        |
| 7.2    | Pre-variscan Basement of the Kielce and Łysogóry Units . . . . .                                                                                                | 202        |
| 7.2.1  | Kielce Unit. . . . .                                                                                                                                            | 202        |
| 7.2.2  | Łysogóry Unit . . . . .                                                                                                                                         | 207        |
| 7.3    | Early Palaeozoic Evolution. . . . .                                                                                                                             | 207        |
| 7.3.1  | Cambrian Succession. . . . .                                                                                                                                    | 207        |
| 7.3.2  | Ordovician Succession. . . . .                                                                                                                                  | 209        |
| 7.3.3  | Silurian Succession . . . . .                                                                                                                                   | 210        |
| 7.4    | Post-caledonian Facies Unification in the Renohercynian, Southern Shelf of Laurussia . . . . .                                                                  | 210        |
| 7.5    | Towards the Variscan deformation—drowning of the Carbonate Platform and Development of Famennian-Mississippian Extensional Basins . . . . .                     | 211        |
| 7.6    | Late Palaeozoic Deformation Stage . . . . .                                                                                                                     | 211        |
| 7.6.1  | Holy Cross Mountains Fold Belt. . . . .                                                                                                                         | 211        |
| 7.7    | Post-Variscan Molasse Type Sedimentation . . . . .                                                                                                              | 217        |
|        | References . . . . .                                                                                                                                            | 217        |

8 The Brunovistulicum—the Neoproterozoic Basement of the Eastern Bohemian Massif . . . . . 223

Pavel Hanžl, Vojtěch Janoušek, David Buriánek, Kristýna Hrdličková, Fritz Finger, and Jiří Kalvoda

8.1 Introduction . . . . . 223

8.2 Position and Subdivision of the Brunovistulicum . . . . . 224

8.3 Lithology and Age of Individual Units . . . . . 225

8.3.1 Metabasite Zone . . . . . 225

8.3.2 Diorite Zone . . . . . 226

8.3.3 Slavkov Terrane . . . . . 226

8.3.4 Thaya Terrane . . . . . 227

8.3.5 Cadomian Foreland Basin . . . . . 229

8.3.6 The Orthogneisses of the Moravo-Silesian Nappes . . . . . 231

8.4 Discussion . . . . . 231

8.4.1 The Western Termination of the Brunovistulicum . . . . . 231

8.4.2 Geochronological Constrains for the Magmatic Evolution of the Brunovistulicum . . . . . 232

8.4.3 Metamorphic Characteristics . . . . . 232

8.4.4 Palaeogeographic Issues . . . . . 233

8.4.5 The Neoproterozoic Geodynamic Evolution . . . . . 234

References . . . . . 235

9 Palaeozoic Cover of the Brunovistulian Unit . . . . . 241

Jiří Kalvoda, Tomáš Kumpan, Ondřej Bábek, David Buriánek, and Rostislav Melichar

9.1 Introduction . . . . . 241

9.2 Allochthonous Units (Western Group of Nappes) . . . . . 245

9.2.1 Sediments of the Rift Basin . . . . . 245

9.2.2 Sediments of the Foreland Basin . . . . . 245

9.3 (Par)autochthonous Units . . . . . 246

9.3.1 Cambrian . . . . . 246

9.3.2 Ordovician . . . . . 246

9.3.3 Sediments of the Rift Basin . . . . . 246

9.3.4 Sediments of the Foreland Basin . . . . . 247

9.4 Palaeozoic Igneous Activity in the Moravo-Silesian Zone . . . . . 248

9.4.1 Silurian Basic Subvolcanic Dykes and Acid to Intermediate Hypabyssal Intrusions . . . . . 248

9.4.2 Devonian Volcano-Sedimentary Complex of the Vrbno Group . . . . . 249

9.4.3 Tectonic Slices of Volcanic Rocks Incorporated into the Culmian Flysch Nappe Sequence of the Moravosilesian Culm Basin . . . . . 250

9.4.4 Volcanoclastic Rocks Within the Culmian Flysch Nappe Sequence of the Moravosilesian Culm Basin . . . . . 250

9.5 Thermal Overprint and Burial History . . . . . 251

9.6 Palaeobiogeography . . . . . 251

9.7 Geological Development . . . . . 252

9.8 Tectonic Frame . . . . . 253

References . . . . . 254

10 External Variscides in South-Eastern Poland and Western Ukraine . . . . . 261

Piotr Krzywiec, Mateusz Kufrasa, and Ihor Bubniak

10.1 Introduction . . . . . 261

10.2 Variscan Externides in Central and Eastern Europe—Regional Geological Background . . . . . 261

|        |                                                                                                 |     |
|--------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| 10.3   | External Variscan Fold-and-Thrust Belt in South-Eastern Poland and Western Ukraine . . . . .    | 263 |
| 10.3.1 | Crustal Structure and Regional Tectonic Evolution. . . . .                                      | 263 |
| 10.3.2 | Variscan Fold-And-Thrust Belt in South-Eastern Poland and Western Ukraine—an Overview . . . . . | 264 |
| 10.4   | Conclusions. . . . .                                                                            | 271 |
|        | References . . . . .                                                                            | 271 |

Part II Building Blocks South of the Rheic Suture

|           |                                                                                                                                                             |            |
|-----------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| 11 | The Saxothuringian Zone—From Cadomian Subduction to Variscan Collision . . . . .                                                                     | 279 |
|           | Ulf Linnemann, Konrad Bartzsch, Mandy Zieger-Hofmann, Johannes Zieger, Andreas Gärtner, Esther Rojo-Perez, and Katja Mende                                  |            |
| 11.1      | Introduction and Plate Tectonic Frame . . . . .                                                                                                             | 279        |
| 11.2      | Building Blocks and Tectonostratigraphy . . . . .                                                                                                           | 287        |
| 11.2.1    | The Autochthonous Domain . . . . .                                                                                                                          | 288        |
| 11.2.2    | The Thrust and Wrench Domain . . . . .                                                                                                                      | 322        |
| 11.2.3    | The Allochthonous Domain. . . . .                                                                                                                           | 330        |
| 11.3      | Final Crustal Architecture. . . . .                                                                                                                         | 333        |
|           | References . . . . .                                                                                                                                        | 338        |
| 12 | The Mid-German Crystalline Rise: Boundary and Composition Based on Geophysical and Borehole Data . . . . .                                           | 347 |
|           | Bodo-Carlo Ehling, Christian Olaf Müller, and Manuela Zeug                                                                                                  |            |
| 12.1      | Introduction. . . . .                                                                                                                                       | 347        |
| 12.1.1    | Odenwald. . . . .                                                                                                                                           | 350        |
| 12.1.2    | Spessart . . . . .                                                                                                                                          | 351        |
| 12.1.3    | Thuringian Forest with the Ruhla Crystalline Complex . . . . .                                                                                              | 352        |
| 12.1.4    | Kyffhäuser Crystalline Complex . . . . .                                                                                                                    | 354        |
| 12.1.5    | Northern Phyllite Zone Within the Rhenish Massif. . . . .                                                                                                   | 354        |
| 12.1.6    | Plutonite Massif of Pretzsch–Prettin–Schönewalde and the Adjacent Delitzsch–Torgau–Doberlug Syncline . . . . .                                              | 355        |
| 12.1.7    | The Mid-German Crystalline Rise as Provenance of Clasts from Culm Conglomerate Layers . . . . .                                                             | 355        |
| 12.2      | Database and Methods for Tracing the Mid-German Crystalline Rise. . . . .                                                                                   | 356        |
| 12.3      | Borehole Data and Geophysical Investigations: Results and Discussion . . . . .                                                                              | 365        |
| 12.3.1    | Western End of MGCR at Bray Fault . . . . .                                                                                                                 | 365        |
| 12.3.2    | Lorraine Basin to Palatinate Forest . . . . .                                                                                                               | 365        |
| 12.3.3    | Palatinate Forest to Spessart . . . . .                                                                                                                     | 367        |
| 12.3.4    | Spessart to Thuringian Forest . . . . .                                                                                                                     | 369        |
| 12.3.5    | Thuringian Forest to Pretzsch–Prettin . . . . .                                                                                                             | 371        |
| 12.3.6    | Pretzsch–Prettin to Middle Odra Fault Zone (South of Zielona Gorá). . . . .                                                                                 | 376        |
| 12.3.7    | Eastern End of MGCR to Moldanubian Thrust. . . . .                                                                                                          | 378        |
| 12.4      | Conclusions: Boundary of the Mid-German Crystalline Rise . . . . .                                                                                          | 378        |
|           | References . . . . .                                                                                                                                        | 380        |
| 13 | The Saxonian Granulite Massif and its Pre- and Post-metamorphic Evolution in the Light of New Geochronological Data of Non-granulite Rocks . . . . . | 387 |
|           | Anja Sagawe, Andreas Gärtner, Mandy Zieger-Hofmann, Johannes Zieger, Axel Gerdes, and Ulf Linnemann                                                         |            |
| 13.1      | Introduction. . . . .                                                                                                                                       | 387        |
| 13.2      | Geological Setting. . . . .                                                                                                                                 | 388        |

|         |                                                                                                                                                                  |     |
|---------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| 13.2.1  | Granulite Complex . . . . .                                                                                                                                      | 388 |
| 13.2.2  | Cordierite-Gneiss Unit . . . . .                                                                                                                                 | 390 |
| 13.2.3  | Metagabbro/Serpentinite Unit . . . . .                                                                                                                           | 390 |
| 13.2.4  | Schist Mantle . . . . .                                                                                                                                          | 391 |
| 13.2.5  | Granitoid Intrusions . . . . .                                                                                                                                   | 391 |
| 13.3    | Methods . . . . .                                                                                                                                                | 392 |
| 13.4    | Results . . . . .                                                                                                                                                | 393 |
| 13.4.1  | Geochemistry . . . . .                                                                                                                                           | 394 |
| 13.4.2  | U–Pb Zircon Morphology, Geochronology and Hf Isotopes . . . . .                                                                                                  | 396 |
| 13.5    | Discussion . . . . .                                                                                                                                             | 401 |
| 13.5.1  | Provenance of Detrital Zircon and Tectonic Setting During theDeposition of Sedimentary Rocks in the Schist Mantle—fromPassive to Active Margin . . . . . | 402 |
| 13.5.2  | The Granitoids of the Saxonian Granulite Massif . . . . .                                                                                                        | 406 |
| 13.5.3  | Mafic Granulites and the Hf Isotope Composition of GranuliteZircon . . . . .                                                                                 | 407 |
| 13.5.4  | Metagabbro-Serpentinite Unit . . . . .                                                                                                                           | 409 |
| 13.6    | Conclusions . . . . .                                                                                                                                            | 410 |
|         | References . . . . .                                                                                                                                             | 410 |
| 14      | The Görlitz Slate Unit (Görlitz-Schiefergebirge)—An Accretion–MelangeComplex . . . . .                                                               | 417 |
|         | Michael Göthel                                                                                                                                                   |     |
| 14.1    | Introduction, Status of Investigation and Knowledge . . . . .                                                                                                    | 417 |
| 14.2    | Regional Geological and Tectonic Situation . . . . .                                                                                                             | 418 |
| 14.3    | Variscan Developments: Allochthonous and Autochthonous—From theAccretionary Wedge to the Northern Gondwanan Shelf Margin . . . . .                           | 420 |
| 14.4    | Lithotypes and Lithosequences—Discussion of the Analogies to theBavarian and Thuringian Facies in the Saxothuringian . . . . .                               | 423 |
| 14.5    | Conclusion . . . . .                                                                                                                                             | 426 |
|         | References . . . . .                                                                                                                                             | 427 |
| 15      | The Geology of Variscan Sudetes and Their Northern Foreland . . . . .                                                                                     | 429 |
|         | Stanisław Mazur, Paweł Aleksandrowski, and Łukasz Gągała                                                                                                         |     |
| 15.1    | Introduction . . . . .                                                                                                                                           | 430 |
| 15.2    | Lithostratigraphic Composition . . . . .                                                                                                                         | 432 |
| 15.3    | General Tectonic Features . . . . .                                                                                                                              | 433 |
| 15.4    | Main Tectonic Units . . . . .                                                                                                                                    | 435 |
| 15.4.1  | Lusatian Massif and Görlitz Slate Belt . . . . .                                                                                                                 | 435 |
| 15.4.2  | Karkonosze-Izera Massif . . . . .                                                                                                                                | 437 |
| 15.4.3  | Kaczawa Metamorphic Unit . . . . .                                                                                                                               | 439 |
| 15.4.4  | North-Sudetic Basin . . . . .                                                                                                                                    | 442 |
| 15.4.5  | Góry Sowie Massif . . . . .                                                                                                                                      | 442 |
| 15.4.6  | Central Sudetic Ophiolite . . . . .                                                                                                                              | 443 |
| 15.4.7  | Kłodzko Metamorphic Unit . . . . .                                                                                                                               | 444 |
| 15.4.8  | Intra-Sudetic Basin . . . . .                                                                                                                                    | 445 |
| 15.4.9  | Świebodzice Basin . . . . .                                                                                                                                      | 446 |
| 15.4.10 | Bardo Basin . . . . .                                                                                                                                            | 446 |
| 15.4.11 | Orlica-Śnieżnik Dome . . . . .                                                                                                                                   | 448 |
| 15.4.12 | Nové Město Belt . . . . .                                                                                                                                        | 449 |
| 15.4.13 | Niemcza and Skrzynka Shear Zones . . . . .                                                                                                                       | 450 |
| 15.4.14 | Kamieniec Metamorphic Belt . . . . .                                                                                                                             | 451 |
| 15.4.15 | Niedźwiedź Amphibolite Massif . . . . .                                                                                                                          | 451 |
| 15.4.16 | The Staré Město Belt . . . . .                                                                                                                                   | 451 |

|      |         |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |            |
|------|---------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
|      | 15.4.17 | East Sudetes . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | 452        |
|      | 15.4.18 | Strzelin Massif . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | 453        |
| 15.5 |         | Carboniferous—Early Permian Magmatism . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                    | 453        |
|      | 15.5.1  | Granitoids of the Odra Fault Zone . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                        | 454        |
|      | 15.5.2  | Niemcza Granitoids . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | 454        |
|      | 15.5.3  | Kłodzko-Złoty Stok and Kudowa-Oleśnice Massifs . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                           | 455        |
|      | 15.5.4  | Jawornik and Staré Město Granitoids . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                      | 455        |
|      | 15.5.5  | Karkonosze Granitoid Pluton . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                              | 455        |
|      | 15.5.6  | Strzegom-Sobótka Granitoid Massif . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                        | 456        |
|      | 15.5.7  | Strzelin and Žulová Granitoid Massifs . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                    | 456        |
|      | 15.5.8  | Subvolcanic and Volcanic Rocks . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                           | 457        |
| 15.6 |         | Major Strike-Slip Faults . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | 458        |
|      | 15.6.1  | Upper Elbe Fault . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | 458        |
|      | 15.6.2  | Intra-Sudetic Fault . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | 458        |
|      | 15.6.3  | Middle Odra Fault . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | 459        |
|      | 15.6.4  | Dolsk Fault . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | 459        |
| 15.7 |         | Sudetic Northern Foreland . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                | 459        |
| 15.8 |         | Correlation with Other Parts of the Variscan Belt . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                        | 461        |
| 15.9 |         | Tectonic Evolution . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | 462        |
|      |         | References . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | 466        |
| 16   |         | The Teplá–Barrandian Unit: A Fascinating Archive Recording &gt;600 My of Evolution of European Crust . . . . .                                                                                                                              | 477 |
|      |         | Jiří Žák, Petr Kraft, Jaroslava Hajná, František Vacek, Martin Svojtka, Václav Kachlík, Lukáš Ackerman, Kryštof Verner, Gernold Zulauf, Wolfgang Dörr, Filip Tomek, Vojtěch Janoušek, Jakub Trubač, Oliver Lehnert, Reza Syahputra, and Jan Pašava |            |
|      | 16.1    | Introduction . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | 478        |
|      | 16.2    | The Very Beginning: Cadomian Accretionary Orogeny at an Active Plate Margin . . . . .                                                                                                                                                              | 480        |
|      |         | 16.2.1 Cadomian Basement Architecture and Component Units . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                | 480        |
|      |         | 16.2.2 Cadomian Deformation and Metamorphism . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                             | 484        |
|      |         | 16.2.3 Zircon Geochronology . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                              | 485        |
|      |         | 16.2.4 Provenance and Paleogeography . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                     | 487        |
|      |         | 16.2.5 Plate-Tectonic Models . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                             | 487        |
|      | 16.3    | The Great Cambrian Changeover: From Active-to-Passive Continental Margin . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                 | 489        |
|      |         | 16.3.1 End of the Cadomian Orogeny: What Were the Driving Forces? . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                        | 489        |
|      |         | 16.3.2 Cambrian Plutonism and the Potential Heat Sources in Cold Crust . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                   | 491        |
|      |         | 16.3.3 Upper-Crustal Record: Sedimentary Basins . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                          | 491        |
|      |         | 16.3.4 Upper-Crustal Record: Volcanism . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                   | 493        |
|      |         | 16.3.5 A Plate-Tectonic Model for Active-to-Passive Margin Transition . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                    | 495        |
|      | 16.4    | The Ordovician and Early Silurian Rift–Drift Transition: Failed or Successful? . . . . .                                                                                                                                                           | 495        |
|      |         | 16.4.1 The Prague Basin: Geologic Setting . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                | 495        |
|      |         | 16.4.2 The Prague Basin: An Early Rift Stage . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                             | 495        |
|      |         | 16.4.3 The Prague Basin: An Advanced Rift Stage . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                          | 500        |

|                                                                            |                                                                                                 |     |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| 16.5                                                                       | In the Tropics: Late Silurian to Early Devonian Carbonate Platform and Reefs. . . . .           | 501 |
| 16.5.1                                                                     | A Late Silurian Change in the Depositional Environments. . . . .                                | 501 |
| 16.5.2                                                                     | Global and Local Eustasy . . . . .                                                              | 501 |
| 16.5.3                                                                     | Stratigraphy, GSSPs, and the Problems with the Pragian . . . . .                                | 504 |
| 16.6                                                                       | Early Paleozoic Continental Drift and Paleogeography . . . . .                                  | 505 |
| 16.7                                                                       | The Variscan Story: From an Orogenic Plateau to Lowland in the Heart of Pangea. . . . .         | 505 |
| 16.7.1                                                                     | Variscan Flysch in the Prague Basin . . . . .                                                   | 505 |
| 16.7.2                                                                     | Growth of an Orogenic Plateau in the Interior of the Variscan Orogen . . . . .                  | 507 |
| 16.7.3                                                                     | Magmatic-Arc Plutonism and Orogenic Plateau Collapse . . . . .                                  | 509 |
| 16.8                                                                       | Instead of an Epilog: Correlation Aspects and Open Issues . . . . .                             | 516 |
|                                                                            | References . . . . .                                                                            | 517 |
| 17                                                                         | The Moldanubian Units—A Broad Insight into Deeper Parts of the Variscan Orogen . . . . . | 527 |
|                                                                            | Kryštof Verner, Leta Megerssa, David Buriánek, and Radka Kalinová                               |     |
| 17.1                                                                       | Introduction. . . . .                                                                           | 527 |
| 17.2                                                                       | Medium- to High-Grade Metamorphic Units . . . . .                                               | 530 |
| 17.3                                                                       | Metamorphic Evolution . . . . .                                                                 | 532 |
| 17.4                                                                       | Magmatic Activity. . . . .                                                                      | 535 |
| 17.5                                                                       | Fabric Pattern . . . . .                                                                        | 539 |
| 17.6                                                                       | Geodynamic Evolution . . . . .                                                                  | 542 |
|                                                                            | References . . . . .                                                                            | 544 |
| 18                                                                         | Vosges and Black Forest . . . . .                                                        | 551 |
|                                                                            | Jean-Marc Lardeaux, Karel Schulmann, and Jean-Bernard Edel                                      |     |
| 18.1                                                                       | Introduction . . . . .                                                                          | 551 |
| 18.2                                                                       | Geological Overview . . . . .                                                                   | 552 |
| 18.3                                                                       | Vosges Massif . . . . .                                                                         | 554 |
| 18.3.1                                                                     | The Northern Vosges Unit (Fig. 18.3) . . . . .                                                  | 554 |
| 18.3.2                                                                     | The Central Vosges Unit . . . . .                                                               | 556 |
| 18.3.3                                                                     | The Southern Vosges Unit (Fig. 18.4) . . . . .                                                  | 557 |
| 18.4                                                                       | Black Forest Massif . . . . .                                                                   | 558 |
| 18.4.1                                                                     | The Baden-Baden Zone . . . . .                                                                  | 558 |
| 18.4.2                                                                     | The Central Schwarzwald Gneiss Complex (CSGC, Fig. 18.2a) . . . . .                             | 560 |
| 18.4.3                                                                     | The Badenweiler-Lenzkirch Zone (BLZ, Figs. 18.2 and 18.5) . . . . .                             | 560 |
| 18.4.4                                                                     | The Southern Schwarzwald Gneiss Complex (SSGC, Fig. 18.2a). . . . .                             | 561 |
| 18.5                                                                       | Summary of the Geological Setting and Orogenic History . . . . .                                | 561 |
| 18.5.1                                                                     | Distinctive Rock Associations: Similarities and Differences . . . . .                           | 561 |
| 18.5.2                                                                     | Orogenic History . . . . .                                                                      | 564 |
|                                                                            | References . . . . .                                                                            | 568 |
| Part III Post-collisional Processes, Modelling, and Zircon Database |                                                                                                 |     |
| 19                                                                         | Permian-Carboniferous Magmatism . . . . .                                                | 577 |
|                                                                            | Christoph Breitkreuz and Marion Tichomirowa                                                     |     |
| 19.1                                                                       | Introduction. . . . .                                                                           | 578 |
| 19.2                                                                       | Precision and Accuracy of U–Pb Zircon Ages: State of the Art . . . . .                          | 579 |

|        |                                                                                                                              |            |
|--------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| 19.3   | Carboniferous-Permian Magmatic Provinces: Distribution and Timing . . .                                                      | 580        |
| 19.3.1 | Early Carboniferous Centres . . . . .                                                                                        | 588        |
| 19.3.2 | Mid- to Late Carboniferous Magmatic Activity . . . . .                                                                       | 590        |
| 19.3.3 | The Carboniferous-Permian Transition . . . . .                                                                               | 594        |
| 19.3.4 | Late Permian Volcanic Fields . . . . .                                                                                       | 597        |
| 19.4   | Magmagenetic and Geotectonic Aspects, and Volcanic Styles . . . . .                                                          | 597        |
|        | References . . . . .                                                                                                         | 601        |
| 20     | Old Structures Awake: Neoseismic Activity—Seismicity and Seismotectonics of the Central European Variscides . . . . . | 609 |
|        | Gottfried Grünthal                                                                                                           |            |
| 20.1   | Introduction . . . . .                                                                                                       | 609        |
| 20.2   | Seismicity . . . . .                                                                                                         | 610        |
| 20.2.1 | The Seismicity of the Central European Variscan Mountain Belt . . . . .                                                      | 610        |
| 20.2.2 | The Frequency of Observed Earthquakes and Fake Quakes . . . . .                                                              | 613        |
| 20.2.3 | The Seismicity in a Broader View . . . . .                                                                                   | 614        |
| 20.3   | The Recent Tectonic Stress Field as Origin for the Seismicity . . . . .                                                      | 618        |
| 20.4   | Regional Tectonic Context . . . . .                                                                                          | 619        |
| 20.5   | Relation of Seismicity to the Structural-Geologically Derived Tectonic Features . . . . .                                    | 622        |
| 20.5.1 | The Bresse-Rhine Rift System . . . . .                                                                                       | 622        |
| 20.5.2 | Seismicity Features E of the Black Forest and W of the Vosges Mountains . . . . .                                            | 625        |
| 20.5.3 | Seismogenic Zones Surrounding the Bohemian Massif . . . . .                                                                  | 625        |
| 20.5.4 | Seismotectonic Features in Northern Parts of the West European Platform . . . . .                                            | 626        |
| 20.6   | Seismicity Related to Fracture Lineaments Derived from Photolineations . . . . .                                             | 626        |
| 20.6.1 | The Vogtland-Leipzig N–S Zone . . . . .                                                                                      | 626        |
| 20.6.2 | The Seismogenic Albstadt Shear Zone (ASZ) with Its Further Surroundings . . . . .                                            | 631        |
| 20.7   | Quantitative Characterisation of the Seismicity and of the Tectonic Regime . . . . .                                         | 634        |
| 20.7.1 | Frequency–Magnitude Distributions . . . . .                                                                                  | 634        |
| 20.7.2 | Focal Depth Distributions . . . . .                                                                                          | 637        |
| 20.7.3 | The Tectonic Regime . . . . .                                                                                                | 638        |
| 20.8   | Induced Seismicity . . . . .                                                                                                 | 639        |
| 20.9   | Seismic Hazard . . . . .                                                                                                     | 640        |
| 20.10  | Conclusions . . . . .                                                                                                        | 643        |
|        | References . . . . .                                                                                                         | 643        |
| 21     | The Kinematic Evolution of Collisional Orogens Undergoing Erosion Modeled with the Distinct Element Method . . . . .  | 649 |
|        | Tim Vietor                                                                                                                   |            |
| 21.1   | Introduction . . . . .                                                                                                       | 649        |
| 21.2   | Numerical Modeling of Collisional Orogens Using PFC2D . . . . .                                                              | 650        |
| 21.2.1 | Mechanical Model . . . . .                                                                                                   | 650        |
| 21.2.2 | Erosion Model . . . . .                                                                                                      | 651        |
| 21.3   | Results . . . . .                                                                                                            | 651        |
| 21.4   | Discussion . . . . .                                                                                                         | 654        |
| 21.5   | Conclusions . . . . .                                                                                                        | 656        |
|        | References . . . . .                                                                                                         | 657        |

22 Atlas of Pre-mesozoic Zircon Provinces in the Central and Western European Variscides and Surrounding Cratons ..... 659
Andreas Gärtner, Anja Sagawe, Mandy Zieger-Hofmann, Johannes Zieger, and Ulf Linnemann

22.1 Evolution and Applications of Zircon Databases ..... 659

22.2 Advantages and Limitations of Extensive Zircon Age Databases ..... 660

22.3 Aims and Parameters of This Database ..... 661

22.4 Zircon Data ..... 662

22.4.1 Baltica and Its Successors ..... 662

22.4.2 Eastern Avalonian Terranes and Their Successors..... 672

22.4.3 Mid-German Crystalline Rise and Equivalent Units ..... 676

22.4.4 West-Carpathians ..... 676

22.4.5 Cadomia and Its Successors..... 677

22.4.6 Cadomian Terranes of Iberia ..... 681

22.4.7 West African Craton..... 683

22.5 Potentials of Extensive Zircon Age Databases—A Selection..... 689

22.5.1 Possibilities of Data Visualisation ..... 690

22.5.2 Selected Phenomena Revealed by the Circum-Variscan Zircon Age Database..... 690

22.6 Conclusion ..... 703

References ..... 703

Part IV Geobiology, Events, and Fossil Lagerstätten

23 Pre-Variscan Glaciations of Central Europe—Plate Tectonic Significance and Palaeogeography ..... 743
Mandy Zieger-Hofmann, Johannes Zieger, Andreas Gärtner, Anja Sagawe, Katja Mende, Jessica Haschke, and Ulf Linnemann

23.1 Introduction..... 743

23.1.1 Origin of the Avalonian and Cadomian Crustal Units ..... 744

23.1.2 Traces of Glacial Events on East-Avalonia and Cadomia ..... 746

23.2 Sections and Samples ..... 751

23.3 Methods..... 751

23.4 Results..... 773

23.5 Interpretation and Discussion ..... 773

References ..... 776

24 Cambrian Fossils of Central Europe and Their Palaeogeographic Constraints..... 781
Gerd Geyer and Olaf Elicki

24.1 Introduction..... 781

24.2 Major Regions: Stratigraphy and Palaeobiogeographic Signatures ..... 781

24.2.1 Franconian Forest ..... 782

24.2.2 Delitzsch–Torgau–Doberlug Syncline..... 788

24.2.3 Görlitz Syncline..... 793

24.2.4 Barrandian Region..... 794

24.2.5 Other Regions ..... 799

24.3 Biofacies and Palaeogeographical Constraints ..... 800

24.4 Conclusions..... 803

24.4.1 Faunal Characteristics and Biostratigraphic Patterns ..... 803

24.4.2 Constraints on Palaeogeography and Tectonostratigraphical Characteristics ..... 804

References ..... 805

25 Relation Between Saxothuringian and Bohemian Trilobites Through the Ordovician . . . . . 811
Oldřich Fatka, Petr Budil, and Ulf Linnemann

25.1 Introduction . . . . . 811

25.2 The Schwarzburg Anticline . . . . . 812

25.2.1 The Gräfenthal Group: Griffelschiefer Formation . . . . . 812

25.2.2 Gräfenthal Group: Schmiedefeld Formation . . . . . 818

25.2.3 Gräfenthal Group: Lederschiefer Formation in the Schwarzburg Anticline and in the Frankenwald . . . . . 819

25.3 Notes on the Early Ordovician Trilobites of the Allochthonous Units (Franconian Forest Region, Northeastern Bavaria) and Their Possible Relation to the Trilobite Faunas of the Par-Authochthonous Units . . . . . 819

25.4 Discussion . . . . . 820

25.5 Conclusions . . . . . 821

References . . . . . 822

26 Silurian to Lower Carboniferous Brachiopods of Central Europe—Palaeogeographic and Palaeobathymetric Constraints . . . . . 827
Ulrich Jansen, Adam T. Halamski, and Bernard Mottequin

26.1 Introduction . . . . . 827

26.1.1 Significance of Palaeozoic Brachiopods . . . . . 827

26.1.2 Institutional Abbreviations . . . . . 831

26.1.3 Regional Developments . . . . . 832

26.1.4 Facies Analysis and Palaeobathymetry . . . . . 835

26.1.5 Brachiopod Palaeobiogeography . . . . . 840

26.2 Brachiopod Faunas . . . . . 842

26.2.1 Development of Brachiopod Faunas from the Silurian to the Mississippian . . . . . 842

26.2.2 Silurian . . . . . 844

26.2.3 Early Devonian . . . . . 849

26.2.4 Middle Devonian . . . . . 857

26.2.5 Late Devonian . . . . . 865

26.2.6 Carboniferous . . . . . 868

26.3 Conclusions . . . . . 872

References . . . . . 873

27 Devonian and Lower Carboniferous Global Events in the Central Variscan Orogen . . . . . 889
Ralph Thomas Becker

27.1 Devonian and Lower Carboniferous Global Events . . . . . 889

27.1.1 Devonian Bioevents . . . . . 889

27.1.2 Devonian Abiotic Events . . . . . 891

27.1.3 Devonian Event Scenarios . . . . . 893

27.1.4 Carboniferous Events . . . . . 897

27.2 Global Event Expression in the Central European Variscides . . . . . 897

27.2.1 Klonk/Hüninghausen Events . . . . . 900

27.2.2 Gerri Event/Middle Lochkovian Events . . . . . 905

27.2.3 Lochkovian-Pragian Boundary Event . . . . . 906

27.2.4 Zinzilban Event . . . . . 906

27.2.5 Atopus Event . . . . . 907

27.2.6 Chebbi Event . . . . . 907

27.2.7 Upper Zlíčov Event . . . . . 908

27.2.8 Daleje Event . . . . . 908

27.2.9 Upper Emsian Events . . . . . 910

|         |                                                                                                          |     |
|---------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| 27.2.10 | (Basal) Choteč Event . . . . .                                                                           | 910 |
| 27.2.11 | Bakoven and Stony Hollow Events . . . . .                                                                | 911 |
| 27.2.12 | Kačák Crisis. . . . .                                                                                    | 912 |
| 27.2.13 | Pumilio Events. . . . .                                                                           | 914 |
| 27.2.14 | Taghanic Crisis. . . . .                                                                                 | 914 |
| 27.2.15 | Geneseo Event . . . . .                                                                                  | 916 |
| 27.2.16 | Upper Givetian Eustatic Events . . . . .                                                                 | 917 |
| 27.2.17 | Frasnes Events/Crisis. . . . .                                                                           | 917 |
| 27.2.18 | Genundewa Event . . . . .                                                                                | 919 |
| 27.2.19 | Timan Event. . . . .                                                                                     | 919 |
| 27.2.20 | Middlesex Event . . . . .                                                                                | 920 |
| 27.2.21 | Rhinestreet Events . . . . .                                                                             | 921 |
| 27.2.22 | Semichatovae Event. . . . .                                                                       | 922 |
| 27.2.23 | Kellwasser Crisis: Lower Kellwasser Event (LKW) . . . . .                                                | 923 |
| 27.2.24 | Upper Kellwasser Event (UKW) . . . . .                                                                   | 925 |
| 27.2.25 | Nehden Event(s) . . . . .                                                                                | 931 |
| 27.2.26 | Condroz Events . . . . .                                                                                 | 933 |
| 27.2.27 | Marginifera Event . . . . .                                                                       | 933 |
| 27.2.28 | Enkeberg and Pseudoclymenia Events . . . . .                                                      | 935 |
| 27.2.29 | Annulata Events. . . . .                                                                          | 936 |
| 27.2.30 | Dasberg Crisis . . . . .                                                                                 | 938 |
| 27.2.31 | Epinette Event/Strunian Transgression . . . . .                                                          | 939 |
| 27.2.32 | Hangenberg Crisis . . . . .                                                                              | 940 |
| 27.2.33 | Lower Alum Shale Event. . . . .                                                                          | 946 |
| 27.2.34 | TICE. . . . .                                                                                            | 947 |
| 27.2.35 | Mid-Aikuanian Event . . . . .                                                                            | 948 |
| 27.2.36 | Anchoralis Event . . . . .                                                                        | 948 |
| 27.2.37 | Avins Event and Tournaisian-Viséan Boundary . . . . .                                                    | 950 |
| 27.2.38 | Lower/Middle Viséan. . . . .                                                                             | 951 |
| 27.2.39 | Entogonites grimmeri Epibole. . . . .                                                             | 951 |
| 27.2.40 | Crenistria Event. . . . .                                                                         | 953 |
| 27.2.41 | Base Brigantian . . . . .                                                                                | 953 |
| 27.2.42 | Actinopteria Epibole . . . . .                                                                    | 954 |
| 27.2.43 | Upper Alum Shale Event . . . . .                                                                         | 954 |
| 27.3    | Conclusions. . . . .                                                                                     | 955 |
|         | References . . . . .                                                                                     | 955 |
| 28      | Conodont Research: An Important Tool Applied to the Central European Variscides . . . . .         | 979 |
|         | Peter Königshof and Sven Hartenfels                                                                      |     |
| 28.1    | Introduction. . . . .                                                                                    | 979 |
| 28.2    | Conodonts and Their Biostratigraphic/Biofacies Potential. . . . .                                        | 980 |
| 28.2.1  | Conodont Zonation—Development and Recent Situation with a Special Focus on the Upper Devonian . . . . .  | 980 |
| 28.2.2  | Conodont Biofacies—Development and Recent Situation with a Special Focus on the Upper Devonian . . . . . | 984 |
| 28.3    | Conodont Colour Alteration Index (CAI). . . . .                                                          | 986 |
| 28.3.1  | Rock Lithology, Diagenetic Alteration, Tectonic Stress, and Conodont Colour. . . . .                     | 988 |
| 28.4    | Application of Conodont Studies (Except Biostratigraphy) . . . . .                                       | 988 |
| 28.4.1  | Conodonts and Hydrocarbon Potential . . . . .                                                            | 988 |
| 28.4.2  | Conodonts, Thermal Anomalies, and Buried Intrusions . . . . .                                            | 990 |

|         |                                                                                                                                                          |      |
|---------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------|
| 28.4.3  | Conodonts and Hydrothermal Fluids.....                                                                                                                   | 990  |
| 28.4.4  | Conodonts and Their Potential as Palaeogeothermometer .....                                                                                              | 990  |
| 28.5    | Conodonts and Climate Changes .....                                                                                                                      | 990  |
| 28.6    | Conclusions.....                                                                                                                                         | 991  |
|         | References .....                                                                                                                                         | 991  |
| 29      | Fossils and Age of the Hunsrück-Schiefer—A Unique Taphonomic Windowin the Lower Devonian of the Rheinisches Schiefergebirge (Germany). ..... | 997  |
|         | Ulrich Jansen and Eberhard Schindler                                                                                                                     |      |
| 29.1    | Introduction.....                                                                                                                                        | 997  |
| 29.2    | Objectives .....                                                                                                                                         | 999  |
| 29.3    | History of Mining .....                                                                                                                                  | 999  |
| 29.4    | History of Research.....                                                                                                                                 | 999  |
| 29.5    | Fossils of the Hunsrück-Schiefer .....                                                                                                                   | 1000 |
| 29.6    | Research Techniques.....                                                                                                                                 | 1005 |
| 29.7    | Geological Setting, Geotectonics and Palaeogeography.....                                                                                                | 1005 |
| 29.8    | Sedimentology, Facies and Palaeoenvironment .....                                                                                                        | 1009 |
| 29.9    | Taphonomy .....                                                                                                                                          | 1013 |
| 29.10   | Stratigraphy and Age of the Hunsrück-Schiefer.....                                                                                                       | 1014 |
| 29.10.1 | History of Stratigraphic Concepts .....                                                                                                                  | 1014 |
| 29.10.2 | Introduction of the Ulmen Group .....                                                                                                                    | 1015 |
| 29.10.3 | Redefinition of the Ulmen Group (or Substage ) .....                                                                                              | 1016 |
| 29.10.4 | Stratigraphy of the Hunsrück-Schiefer in the SouthernRheinisches Schiefergebirge .....                                                               | 1016 |
| 29.10.5 | Correlation and Age of the Hunsrück-Schiefer Group .....                                                                                                 | 1017 |
| 29.10.6 | Stratigraphy of the Hunsrück-Schiefer in the MoselSynclitorium .....                                                                                 | 1022 |
| 29.10.7 | Stratigraphy of the Hunsrück-Schiefer in the Salzig Anticline(Nassau and Bornhofen Formations).....                                                  | 1026 |
| 29.10.8 | Radiometric Datings .....                                                                                                                                | 1026 |
| 29.11   | Summary.....                                                                                                                                             | 1027 |
|         | References .....                                                                                                                                         | 1028 |