

Contents

List of figures	ix
List of plates	xvii
List of tables	xviii
Foreword by HRH Prince El Hassan bin Talal	xix
1. Introduction
Reframing the “Desert Frontier”	1
Part 1
Revisiting the Roman record	7
2. The identity of Roman Isauria
An archaeological approach
Hugh Elton, Trent University	9
3. Freedmen in Roman Hegra
Zbigniew T. Fiema, University of Helsinki	27
4. Every cloud has a silver lining
Revisiting the “military” coin hoards from Dura-Europos
Peter Edwell, Macquarie University	43
5. Unmasking Roman Pella
Margaret O’Hea, University of Adelaide	63
6. Brünnow and Domaszewski’s Die Provincia Arabia (1904–09)
The why and the how
Phil Freeman, University of Liverpool	93
Looking for Marguerite Brünnow
Naomi Aliza Rubinstein	111

Part 2
	Reframing the record	121
7.	An early archaeological landscape map of the Azraq lava fields Michael Fradley, University of Oxford	123
8.	Origins, legacy and recent developments in aerial archaeology in the Middle East Robert Bewley, University of Oxford	139
9.	Looking back to Kennedy and Riley’s Rome’s Desert Frontier from the Air (1990) Ross Burns, Macquarie University	169
10.	Gottlieb Schumacher and Pella Stephen Bourke and Sandra Gordon, University of Sydney	191
11.	From survey to further research Several sites of the Roman (Nabataean) period in southern Jordan Burton MacDonald	213
12.	Early visitors to the site of Ḥumayma Their contributions to our understanding of the region and its people John Peter Oleson, University of Victoria	239
Part 3
	Hinterland studies	265
13.	Changes in settlement patterns in the territory of Gerasa (Jarash) A synthesis David (Don) Boyer, University of Western Australia	267
14.	Vignettes of sprawling townships of Roman Gerasa revealed by pottery clusters from the periphery of the walled city Ina Kehrberg-Ostrasz, University of Sydney; Australian National University	297
15.	Private estates or private villages? Land tenure in Byzantine and Early Islamic Jordan Basema Hamarneh, University of Vienna	323
16.	The archaeology of the Safa region, southern Syria Karin Bartl	343
17.	Al-Bādiyah landscapes in fifth- to tenth-century Jordan A barometer of change Alan Walmsley, Macquarie University	371

Part 4
Sky, sand and basalt	397
18. Understanding Ḥumayma from aerial photographs
M. Barbara Reeves, Queen's University	399
19. Field survey and aerial reconnaissance
The mutual interaction of survey methods in the Jawa Hinterland Project
Bernd Müller-Neuhof, Vorderasiatisches Museum, Staatliche Museen zu Berlin, Stiftung Preußischer Kulturbesitz	419
20. The multifaceted site of Wisād Pools, Black Desert
G. Rollefson, A. Wasse, Y. Rowan, W. Abu-Azizeh and A.C. Hill	437
21. The AAKSA Project
A multi-scalar methodology for documenting the archaeological landscapes of AlUla and Ḥarrat Khaybar, Saudi Arabia
Melissa Kennedy*, Rebecca Repper, Hugh Thomas*, Matthew Dalton, Jane McMahon, David Boyer and Lauren Swift (*University of Sydney, University of Western Australia)	457
Index	487