1 Language, Learning, and Teaching

1

The Evolving Landscape of SLA	1
Post-Pandemic Challenges and Technological Advancements	2
Global Conflicts and the Role of Language Education	2
Defining Language in the 21st Century	3
Language as a Complex Dynamic System	3
Multilingualism and Translingual Practices	3
Language and Identity	4
Learning in the 21st Century: Beyond the Classroom	5
Cognitive Perspectives	5
Sociocultural Perspectives	5
Ecological and Transdisciplinary Approaches	6
Emotion and Affect in Learning	7
Teaching in a Transnational World	7
Teaching as Facilitation and Mediation	7
Emotionally Engaged and Inclusive Pedagogy	8
Incorporating Technology and AI	9
The Intersection of Language, Learning, and Teaching in a Global Context	9
Language as a Global Connector	10
Learning as a Multidimensional Process	10
Teaching in a Transnational and Multilingual World	10
Conclusion: Nurturing Global Citizens Through Additional Language Education	11
Suggested Readings	12

2 Overview of SLA Research

14

- Definition and Scope of SLA 15
- Historical Development of SLA Research 16
 - Origins and Early Influences (1950s–1970s) 16
 - Establishment of SLA as a Distinct Field (1970s–1980s) 19
 - Expansion and Diversification in SLA (1990s–2000s) 22
- SLA in the 21st Century 25
 - Emerging Trends in SLA Research 25
 - Epistemological Diversity in SLA Research 30
- Conclusion and Summary 31
- Suggested Readings* 32
- References* 32

3 Age and Language Development

36

- First Language Development 37
 - Stages of First Language Acquisition 37
 - Theories of First Language Acquisition 38
- The Critical Period Hypothesis 42
 - Supporting Evidence 43
 - Challenges and Alternate Hypotheses 43
- Ultimate Attainment 44
 - Age of Acquisition (AoA) and Age of Onset (AO) 45
 - Length of Residence (LoR) 45
 - Quality and Quantity of Input 45
 - Sociopsychological Variables: Motivation and Identity 46
 - Native-Like Attainment 46
- Child Instructed SLA 48
 - Strengths of Younger Children 48
 - Strengths of Older Children 49
 - Implications for Adult Learners 49
- Bilingual and Multilingual Children's Language Development 50
 - Simultaneous and Sequential Bilinguals 50
 - Multicompetence and Dynamic Systems Theory 51
 - Code-Switching and Translanguaging 52
- Summary and Conclusion 52
- Suggested Readings* 52
- References* 53

4 Neurobiology of Language Learning

57

- Neurobiological Foundations of Language Learning 58
 - Cognition and Language Processing 58

Emotion and Language Learning: The Neurobiology of Affect	59
Integration of Cognitive and Affective Processes	62
Neuroplasticity	63
Neuroplasticity and Language Learning	63
The Interplay of Emotion and Neuroplasticity	64
Implications for Language Teaching	64
Interactional Instinct in Language Development	64
The Social Brain and Language Learning	65
The Role of the Social Brain in Early Language Development	66
Joint Attention and Gaze Following	66
Implications for Additional Language Learning	67
Emotions in Learning Additional Languages	67
The Role of Positive Emotions	67
The Impact of Negative Emotions	68
Emotional Complexity in Language Learning: Beyond a Dichotomy	68
Neurobiological Foundations of Emotions in Language Learning	68
Tips for Teaching	69
Implications for Language Pedagogy	69
Emotional Engagement in the Classroom	69
Creating a Positive Environment	70
Intercultural Sensitivity and Inclusivity	70
Balancing Cognition and Emotion	71
Incorporating Neurobiology Into Teaching Strategies	71
Designing Emotionally Supportive Environments	71
Conclusion	71
Suggested Readings	71
References	72

5 Motivation, Identity, and Agency 75

Motivation in Language Learning	76
Overview of Research on Motivation	76
The Socio-Educational Model	76
The Self-Determination Theory	77
SDT in the Classroom Implementation	80
The L2 Motivational Self System	81
Identity in Language Learning	84
Poststructuralist Approaches to Identity	84
Investment and Imagined Communities	85
Transnationalism and Transnational Identity	87
Digital Identities in Language Learning	89
Agency in Language Learning	91
The Interrelation of Agency, Motivation, and Identity	91
Understanding Agency in Language Learning	92

Critical Approaches to Understanding Agency	93
Implications for Research and Practice	94
Constructs Related to Motivation, Identity, and Agency	95
Autonomy and Self-Efficacy	95
Flow in Language Learning	97
Willingness to Communicate (WTC)	97
Tips for Teaching	99
Summary and Conclusion	100
Suggested Readings	101
References	101
6 Aptitude and Cognitive Differences	105
Language Aptitude	106
Components of Language Aptitude	106
Aptitude Testing	107
Modern Perspectives on Language Aptitude	108
Learning Strategies	111
Types of Learning Strategies	112
Strategy Use and Effectiveness	113
Self-Regulation in Language Learning	116
Components of Self-Regulation	117
Self-Regulatory Strategies	117
Profiles of Self-Regulated Learners	118
Developing Self-Regulation Skills	118
Artificial Intelligence in Language Learning	119
Key Affordances of AI in Language Learning	120
Personalization and Efficiency	120
Robot-Assisted Language Learning (RALL)	121
Challenges and Ethical Considerations	121
Future Directions	122
Tips for Teaching	122
Differentiated Instruction Based on Cognitive Differences	122
Developing Cognitive Flexibility in Learners	123
Integrating Strategy Training in Language Curricula	123
Leveraging Technology to Address Cognitive Differences	124
Summary and Conclusion	124
Suggested Readings	125
References	125
7 Learner Language and Crosslinguistic Influences	129
Understanding Learner Language	130
Historical Perspectives on Learner Language	130
The Role of Errors in Learning	133

Developmental Patterns in Learner Language	133
Functional Approaches to Understanding Learner Language	135
The Aspect Hypothesis	136
Implications for Language Teaching	137
Crosslinguistic Influences	138
Positive Transfer	138
Negative Transfer	138
Bidirectional Transfer	139
Tips for Teaching	141
Emotions in Crosslinguistic Influences	141
Emotional Resonance of Languages	142
Language Choice in Emotional Contexts	143
Tips for Teaching	143
Bilingual Myths	143
Common Misconceptions About Bilingualism	143
Debunking Bilingual Myths	144
Tips for Teaching	145
Multicompetence	145
Theoretical Background and Significance	146
Critiquing the Native Speaker Model	146
Tips for Teaching	147
Translanguaging in Language Education	148
Translanguaging Practices in Language Classrooms	148
Benefits and Challenges of Translanguaging	149
Implementing Translanguaging Pedagogy	150
Conclusion and Implications	152
Suggested Readings	152
References	152

8 Cognitive and Processing Approaches 155

Information Processing in Language Learning	156
Cognitive Resources: Working Memory and Attention	156
Controlled vs. Automatic Processing	157
Skill Acquisition Theory	157
Declarative and Procedural Memory Systems	159
Intentional and Incidental Learning	161
Input Processing Theory	164
Cognitive-Interactionist Approaches	166
The Role of Interaction in SLA	166
The Output Hypothesis	167
Feedback and Its Effectiveness	167
Form-Focused Instruction (FFI)	168
Complexity, Accuracy, and Fluency (CAF)	169

Summary and Implications	172
Tips for Teaching	173
Guidelines for Integrated Strategies for Effective Language Teaching	175
Suggested Readings	175
References	175

9 Sociocultural Theory and Additional Language Learning 178

Foundational Principles of Sociocultural Theory	179
Dialectical Approach to Human Psychology	179
Mediation	180
Regulation	180
Internalization	182
Zone of Proximal Development	183
Private Speech and Inner Speech	184
Collaborative Learning	185
Peer Interaction	185
Expert-Novice Interaction	186
Languaging	187
Definition	187
Types of Languaging	187
Tips for Teaching	188
Dynamic Assessment	189
Theoretical Basis	189
Interventionist and Interactionist Approaches	190
Applications in L2 Assessment and Instruction	190
Study Abroad and Sociocultural Theory	191
Immersion and Social Interaction	192
Cultural Mediation and Languaculture	192
Identity and Agency in Study Abroad	192
The Role of Scaffolding in Study Abroad	193
Summary and Conclusion	194
Tips for Teaching	194
Mediating L2 Development	195
Promoting Internalization	195
Working Within Learners' ZPDs	196
Fostering Private Speech and Inner Speech	197
Suggested Readings	197
References	197

10 Ecological and Transdisciplinary Approaches to Language Learning and Teaching 200

The Ecology of Language Learning and Teaching 201

Semiotic Resources 201

Affordances 202

Scaffolding 204

Authenticity and Authentication 206

Agency and Power 207

Distributed and Embodied Cognition 209

Multimodality 210

Tips for Teaching 211

Transdisciplinary Approaches to SLA 212

Intercultural Citizenship in Additional Language Education 212

Conflict Transformation in Additional Language Education 213

Peace Linguistics 215

Tips for Teaching 215

Synthesis and Integration: Ecological and Transdisciplinary Approaches in Context 216

Complementing Cognitive and Psycholinguistic Approaches 216

Extending Sociocultural Theories 217

Bridging Individual and Social Perspectives 217

Enhancing Communicative and Task-Based Methods 217

Integrating Technology and Multimodality 217

Addressing Complexity and Diversity 217

Suggested Readings 218
