

CONTENTS

Preface ix

Acknowledgements xi

List of Abbreviations xiii

1 Introduction 1

1.1 Encounters with nothing 1

1.2 Learning from our moods 4

1.3 Meaningfulness and possibility 7

1.4 Structure of the book 11

1.5 Kierkegaard and Heidegger 14

2 What makes us anxious? 19

2.1 Dysfunction or potential? 19

2.2 The 'riddle' of anxiety in Freud 26

2.3 Lacan and the anxiety in front of a mirror 31

2.4 Anxiety as a glimpse at our openness 41

3 Anxiety and the origin of human existence 45

3.1 Who are we and what are we for? 45

3.2 Anxiety and spirit 50

3.3 Adam as our origin 53

3.4 Anxiety in the individual life, an insight into our origin 58

- 4 Wonder and the origin of philosophy 63
  - 4.1 Wonder at the most usual unusual 63
  - 4.2 From rainbows to meaningfulness: Where philosophy begins 66
  - 4.3 Heidegger's reading of the Theaetetus: The wonder at 'that it is' 70
  - 4.4 Anxious wonder 75
- 5 The paradox of anxiety and wonder 83
  - 5.1 Seeing the world as a miracle, and the problem of nonsense 83
  - 5.2 'The paradox is the wonder' 88
- 6 After anxiety and wonder 95

Notes 104

Bibliography 142

Index 147