

Contents

---

List of Figures	page vii
Acknowledgements	viii
Funding	x
Introduction	1
1 A Theory of BLIBS	15
1.1 The 'Gallery of Indiscernibles'	15
1.2 A Rather Widespread Variety of Conventionalism	16
1.3 A Theory of BLIBS vs BLOBS	19
1.4 Essentialism and Its Ethics	24
2 What Sort of Concept Literature and Art Is Not	28
2.1 Introduction	28
2.2 Literature and Art as a Conventional (Prototypical) Concept	29
2.3 Literature and Art as a Structural Concept	34
2.4 Literature and Art as a Conventional (Institutional) Concept	38
2.5 Literature and Art as a Causal (Intentional) Concept	41
3 Literature and Art as an Action	50
3.1 Three Centuries of Binarism	50
3.2 Ways of Seeing Objects: The Aspectual Mind	52
3.3 Aspectual Representations and Naive Agency: The Case of Incidental Creatorship	63
3.4 Artistic Thought States/Processes: The Artistic or 'Poetic' Mind	68
3.5 Artistic Thought as a Stylistic Thought State/Process	88
3.6 Artistic Thought States/Processes vs Artistic Creation Methods	91
3.7 Local vs Global Facts	95
4 Literature and Art as a Cognitive and Natural Object	97
4.1 Literature and Art as a Cognitive Concept	97
4.2 Cognitive Ontology or Towards a Cognitive Metaphysics	102

4.3	From a Poetics of Language to a Poetics of Action: Literature and Art as a Natural Object	108
4.4	Cognitive Objects with an Evaluative Element: Art and Aesthetic Experience	120
4.5	Why Art Is Not an Unstable Object	128
5	How to Solve the Ontological Puzzles	131
5.1	The Concept ARTWORK as a Fuzzy Set	131
5.2	Solving Some Ontological Puzzles	132
6	Literature, Art and Relevance	145
6.1	Art as an Intra-individual and Inter-individual Occurrence: Evolutionary and Cognitive Conundrums Revisited	145
6.2	Artistic Thought States/Processes as Relevance-Yielding Phenomena	148
6.3	Art, Agency and Attention: Relevance beyond Cognitive Effects?	151
6.4	The Composite Organism: Perceptual and Affective Effects	162
6.5	Suggestions for Future Research	172
7	Interdisciplinary Effects on the Psychology and Neuroscience of Creativity	175
7.1	A Hands-On Example of Two-Way Interdisciplinarity	175
7.2	Is There Such a Thing as Creativity?	176
7.3	Mere Creation vs Creative Creation: All the Way from the Nonsensical to the Exceptionally Non-trivial	178
7.4	Constraint-Governed Productivity/Plasticity	186
7.5	Context-Sensitive Productivity/Plasticity	187
7.6	Full-Blown Creativity: Aspectual and Other Forms of Creative Ideation	192
	Bibliography	224
	Index	243