

Contents

This is where we begin	13
Preface	17
PART ONE: THREE QUESTIONS
1    Why read Scottish literature?	20
2    What is literature?	26
3    Was there ever a 'British' literature?	33
PART TWO: SCOTLAND EMERGENT
1    The Gaelic tradition: the Three Great Cycles	44
2    The Gaelic Otherworld	53
3    Merlin, Arthur and Calgacus	57
4    The Picts, The Gododdin and Columba	62
5    From The Dream of the Rood to the Norse sagas	69
PART THREE: APPROACHES
1    Performing Scotland: plays, drama and theatricality	76
2    Poetry: how to read and what to read	84
3    Stories and novels	89
PART FOUR: AUTHORS AND WORKS
1    Early Gaelic poetry: the Dean of Lismore and the MacMhuirichs	98
2    Thomas Rhymer and Wyntoun's Cronykil	103
3 The Bruce , The Wallace , Bannockburn and the Declaration of Arbroath	106
4    Love is all you need: James I, The Kingis Quair	113
5    The rule of compassion: Robert Henryson	118

6	Not energy ordered, energised order: William Dunbar	124
7	Poet and translator: Gavin Douglas	128
8	Early plays, Philotus and David Lyndsay's Satyre of the Thrie Estaitis	133
9	The Latin tradition and George Buchanan	145
10	The Latin tradition and Arthur Johnstone	154
11	Defy them all: Elizabeth Melville	159
12	Mark Alexander Boyd and the 'Castalian Band'	163
13	Sorrow in a deadly vein: William Drummond of Hawthornden	168
14	The Border Ballads, Robert Kirk and the Marquis of Montrose	171
15	Oddfellows: William Lithgow and Thomas Urquhart	176
16	Gaelic poetry of the 17th century	183
17	Gaelic poetry of the early 18th century	189
18	More Gaelic poetry of the early 18th century	194
19	Scottish Enlightenment authors: Stewart, Hume, Smith, Hutton, Ferguson	197
20	In the eye of the storm: Alasdair mac Mhaighstir Alasdair / Alexander MacDonald	205
21	The ecological eye: Donnchadh Bàn Mac an t-Saoir / Duncan Ban MacIntyre	213
22	Gaelic poetry of the later 18th century	217
23	James Macpherson and Ossian	222
24	Ramsay's The Gentle Shepherd , Home's Douglas and Carstairs's The Hubble-Shue	231
25	Tender strengths: Robert Fergusson	245
26	The politics of song: Robert Burns	249
27	Poetry in English: from Thomson to Byron	258
28	The doctor's expeditions: Tobias Smollett	263
29	What can this thing be?: James Hogg	268
30	Divided loyalties, sympathies unbound: Walter Scott	273
31	Domestic politics, fanatic extremes: John Galt	293

CONTENTS

32	The Tavern Sages and Ferrier, Baillie, Brunton, Oliphant, Cockburn and Reid	298
33	Victorian Sages from Thomas Carlyle to Margaret Oliphant	304
34	Gaelic poetry of the 19th century	310
35	Prophet of modernity: Robert Louis Stevenson	315
36	Stevenson's contemporaries: from Charles Mackay to Florence Dixie	322
37	Writers of the Industrial Revolution: from Thomas Campbell to Arthur Conan Doyle	327
38	Gaelic poetry: from 19th century to the 20th century	332
39	Beyond the Kailyard	338
40	The internationalists: from R.B. Cunninghame Graham to Violet Jacob	352
41	Gaelic poetry of the early 20th century	357
42	Playwrights and plays: from Joanna Baillie to John Brandane	363
43	Renaissance: Hugh MacDiarmid	369
44	Questions of language: William Soutar and Edwin Muir	383
45	Thin ice and voluminous works: Compton Mackenzie and Naomi Mitchison	389
46	The morning star: Lewis Grassie Gibbon	394
47	Matters of spirit: Neil Gunn	399
48	Tragedy and comedy: Fionn Mac Colla and Eric Linklater	404
49	Self-determinations: Catherine Carswell, Nan Shepherd and Willa Muir	409
50	Playwrights and plays: Joe Corrie, James Bridie, Joan Littlewood and Ewan MacColl	413
51	Edinburgh and Lochinver: Robert Garioch and Norman MacCaig	421
52	Love and war: Somhairle MacGill-Eain / Sorley MacLean and Sydney Goodsir Smith	425
53	Scouts of the limits: W.S. Graham and Deòrsa mac Iain Dheòrsa / George Campbell Hay	430
54	Folk song and the dance of the intellect: Hamish Henderson and Edwin Morgan	437
55	Deadliness and grace: Robin Jenkins and Muriel Spark	443

56	Lords of the Isles: George Mackay Brown and Iain Mac a' Ghobhainn / Iain Crichton Smith	448
57	Gaelic poetry of the later 20th century	458
58	Playwrights and plays: from Robert McLellan to John McGrath	463
59	Literary fiction: from George Friel to Jessie Kesson	469
60	Scotland and America: Alexander Trocchi and Gordon Williams	473
61	Bestsellers: from Annie S. Swan to Nigel Tranter	476
62	Resisting repression: James Kennaway, Agnes Owens, Archie Hind and Alasdair Gray	481
63	An awkward squad: from David Lindsay to Andrew O'Hagan	485
64	Gaelic prose fiction: from the 16th to the 20th centuries	489
65	Gaelic prose fiction in English and the Ùr-sgeul initiative	493
66	Modern Gaelic prose fiction: a flood of new novels	497
67	Possible dancers: Irvine Welsh, Carl MacDougall and A.L. Kennedy	500
68	Risky desires and natural needs: Iain Banks and Janice Galloway	505
69	Scotland and further: James Robertson, Ali Smith and Alan Warner	509
70	Forms of revival: Allan Massie, James Kelman and Alan Spence	513
71	Scotlands (plural): from Janet Paisley to Kirstin Innes	517
72	Gaelic fiction in the 21st century: satires, vexations and vicissitudes	522
73	Playwrights and plays: from Robert Kemp to Liz Lochhead	527
74	Plays: future prospects and past performance	533
75	Plays in Gaelic: on the page and on the stage	541
76	Plays, theatres and drama: a good night out	548
77	Lowlander and Gael: Stewart Conn and Aonghas MacNeacail	553
78	Three kinds of poet: Douglas Dunn, Tom Leonard and Liz Lochhead	557
79	Nothing in uniform: from Veronica Forrest-Thomson to Jackie Kay	562
80	Worlds of difference: from Tom Buchan to Kathleen Jamie	566

CONTENTS

PART FIVE: DIVAGATIONS

1	Languages, literature, humanity and tragedy	572
2	Big themes and new approaches	578
3	Mongrel nation: freedom, history and geography	583
4	Modernity and war: visions beyond violence	588
5	Genres and forms: crime, science fiction, children's literature, song	594
6	Scottish literature at play	600
7	Psychology, flyting, philosophy and speculation	607
8	Religion and sport	612
9	Radio, film and TV	617
10	New media	622
11	Travel writing	628
12	Diaspora	633

PART SIX: A LOOSE CANON

1	The idea of a canon	640
2	What a canon is	644
3	What a canon is for	649
4	A loose canon: significant authors and works of Scottish literature	654

PART SEVEN: A GAZETEER OF SCOTTISH LITERATURE

Map	676
101 places to visit	677
Further reading	709
A select bibliography of histories of Scottish literature	711
Endnote	715
Acknowledgements	716
Index of author names	717