

Contents

Acknowledgement	vii
Notes on Contributors	viii
Introduction: Postfeminist Gothic Benjamin A. Brabon and Stéphanie Genz	1
1 Dark Departures: Contemporary Women's Writing after the Gothic Lucie Armitt	16
2 Neo-Splatter: Bride of Chucky and the Horror of Heteronormativity Judith Halberstam	30
3 Bite-Size Pieces: Disassembling the Gothic Villain in Witchblade Rhonda V. Wilcox	43
4 The Spectral Phallus: Re-Membering the Postfeminist Man Benjamin A. Brabon	56
5 (Re)Making the Body Beautiful: Postfeminist Cinderellas and Gothic Tales of Transformation Stéphanie Genz	68
6 The Stepford Wives : What's a Living Doll to Do in a Postfeminist World? Anne Williams	85
7 The Postfeminist Filmic Female Gothic Detective: Reading the Bodily Text in Candyman Diane Long Hoeveler	99
8 Moving beyond Waste to Celebration: The Postcolonial/Postfeminist Gothic of Nalo Hopkinson's "A Habit of Waste" Gina Wisker	114

9	George Elliott Clarke's Beatrice Chancy : Sublimity, Pain, Possibility Donna Heiland	126
10	Sensibility Gone Mad: Or, Drusilla, Buffy and the (D)evolution of the Heroine of Sensibility Claire Knowles	140
11	She : Gothic Reverberations in Star Trek : First Contact Linda Dryden	154
12	Flight of the Heroine Fred Botting	170
	Index	186