

Contents

Acknowledgements IX

Introduction 1

PART 1

Hilary a Latin Non-Platonic Physicalist

- 1 Revising the Lens through which Hilary is Read 11
 - The Scholarly Controversy Surrounding Physicalism in Hilary 11
 - The Waxing and Waning of Harnack's Influence on Hilary Scholarship 14
 - Excursus: Poor Scholarship has Fueled the Fire 18
 - Incorrect Reading of Erasmus Sets the Stage* 18
 - Misinterpretations and Inaccuracies Regarding the Critique of Harnack and the German Liberal Protestants of the Nineteenth Century* 21
 - The Dominant Paradigm of Accepting Hilary's Physicalism Lacks an Argued Rationale for Its Rejection of Harnack 23
- 2 Hilary's Use of Language and Rhetoric 25
 - What Does Hilary Mean by the Assumption of All Humanity? 26
 - Hilary's Use of Non-Metaphorical Rhetoric to Speak of Christ's Assumption of All Humanity 29
 - Case Study: Hilary vs. Tertullian 37
 - Does Hilary's Insistence on "Physicality" Make the Assumption of All Humanity Impossible? 40
 - Conclusion 42
- 3 The Context of, and Influences upon, Hilary's Soteriology 43
 - Hilary's Appropriation of Greek Philosophy 44
 - Prior to His Exile* 44
 - After His Exile* 51
 - Hilary's Relationship with Greek Theology 52
 - Irenaeus and Athanasius* 52
 - Origen and Eusebius of Caesarea* 54
 - Stoic Contributions to Hilary's Soteriology 62
 - The Stoic Conception of Human Unity* 63

- Stoic Anthropology and Psychology* 70
- The Complementarity of Body and Soul 70
- Pain vs. Suffering 71
- Stoic Physics and Mixture Theory* 73
- The Transmission of Plato's Theory of the Forms via Latin Stoicism* 79
- Latin Theological Context for Hilary's Physicalist Model of Redemption 83
- Conclusion 90
- 4 Proof of Hilary's Physicalism 92
- Problems of Terminology 94
- The Definition of Physicalism 95
- The Physicalist Model in the In Matthaëum: Refutation of Platonic
 Influence 100
- The Physicalist Model in the Tractatus super Psalmos 105
- Latin Atonement Theory? The Importance of the Suffering and Death of Christ in Hilary's Redemption Model 107
- Conclusion 115
- PART 2
- The Ramifications of Physicalism on Hilary's Theological System
- 5 Christological Ramifications: Sublimation of Christology into
Soteriology 119
- "Christology" as a Double Category 121
- Hilary's Three-Stage Christology in the Framework of Philippians 2:6–11 124
- Hilary's Use of Forma to Mean Both Nature and Condition* 128
- Stage One: The Son of the Father* 130
- Stage Two: The Incarnate Christ's Reception of All Humanity* 130
- Stage Three: The Glorification of Christ and All Humanity in Him* 132
- Conclusion 134
- 6 The Assumption of All Humanity as Definitive of Hilary's Physicalist
Soteriology 135
- The Prerequisite: The Anterior Unity of Humanity 136
- The Pauline Adam-Christ Parallel 138
- Birth from a Virgin 145
- The Conditional Universality of Salvation: Given to All but Rejected by Many 147

- Christ the Mediator and the Double Creation of Man 154
 Conclusion 163
- 7 Eschatological Ramifications: Eternal Life in Christ 165
 Hilary's Use of Adsumere Manifests the Connection between Soteriology and Eschatology 165
 The Contours of Hilary's Eschatology 166
 Christ's Inheritance 173
 1 Corinthians 15:21–28 as the Scriptural Frame for Hilary's
 Eschatology 174
 The Eternal Priesthood of Christ 179
 The Resurrection of the Body: From Corruption to Incorruption 180
 Salvation is of Both Body and Soul 183
 The Heavenly City of Jerusalem; The Celestial Zion 186
 Heaven and the Divine Indwelling 189
 Conclusion 191
- 8 Ecclesiological Ramifications: The Church is the Body of Christ 193
 The Development of Hilary's Ecclesiology and Its Dependence on the Assumption of All Humanity 193
 The Relationship of Soteriology and Ecclesiology in the
In Matthaëum 195
 Ecclesial Images in the In Matthaëum 196
 The Younger Supplants the Elder in the Tractatus super Psalmos: The Universality of the Church 200
 The Creation of Eve as Prefiguration of the Church in the Tractatus mysteriorum and the Tractatus super Psalmos 203
 The Church as Body of Christ in the Tractatus super Psalmos 207
 The Expansion of Hilary's Christocentric Soteriology to Include the Holy Spirit 215
 Conclusion 220
- 9 Hilary's Patercentric Theology: The Relationship between Physicalism and Trinitarian Theology 222
 Hilary's Trinitarian Vocabulary: Persona, Nomen, and Natura 226
 The Place of the Holy Spirit in Hilary's Trinitarian Theology 237
 The Eternal Relationship of the Father and the Son in the De Trinitate
 and the Tractatus super Psalmos 239
 The Temporal Mediation of the Son 249

The Implications of the Assumption of All Humanity in Hilary's Trinitarian Theology: Seeing God	256
Hilary's Patercentric Theology	262
Conclusion	267
Conclusion	270
Hilary's Teaching of Christ's Assumption of All Humanity is Neither Imported from the East nor Inherited from the West	270
Hilary's Teaching of Christ's Assumption of All Humanity Demonstrates the Unified Nature of His Theological System	271
The Standard Scholarly Perception of Hilary is Driven by a Divisive Method of Study	272
A New (Unified) Method Leads to a New Perception	274
What does Hilary Have to Offer?	275
Hilary's Contribution to the Historian	275
Hilary's Contribution to the Theologian	277
Bibliography	279
Index	294
Scripture Index	298