

Contents

Acknowledgments IX

Abbreviations XI

General Introduction 1

PART 1

The Beginning until Alexandria (until 190)

1 Part 1 Introduction 19

2 Papias of Hierapolis and His Presbyterial Tradition: Sourcing the Tradition 20

3 Hermas of Rome: Tower, City, and Bride—An Early Allegorical Approach 39

4 Justin of Rome: Millennialism Goes to Rome 69

5 Melito of Sardis: Reconstructing a Lost Witness 90

6 New Prophecy: An Early Orthodox Perspective 110

7 Irenaeus of Lyons: The End of the Beginning 140

8 Vestiges and Possible Allusions 170

9 Part 1 Conclusion: The First Hundred Years 192

PART 2

The Greek Authors (190–313)

10 Part 2 Introduction: The New Jerusalem and John's Revelation in Rome and Alexandria 207

11 Clement of Alexandria: Flying to Jerusalem 213

- 12 The Hippolytan Corpus: The Christological Turn 237
- 13 Origen: "The City Is the People" 255
- 14 Gregory of Neocaesarea: The Pedagogue and the Polis 286
- 15 Methodius of Olympus: A Greek Synthesis 294
- 16 Part 2 Conclusion: What Has Alexandria to Do with Jerusalem? 320

PART 3

The Latin Authors (190–313)

- 17 Part 3 Introduction: The New Jerusalem in Carthage and Beyond 329
- 18 Tertullian of Carthage: First Among the Latins 331
- 19 Perpetua and Saturus: Dreaming of Jerusalem 348
- 20 The Two Mountains Sinai and Zion: A Holy and New City 358
- 21 Cyprian of Carthage: City of Gods 366
- 22 Victorinus of Poetovio: The First Latin Exegete 387
- 23 Commodian: Golden Camp, Golden Age 419
- 24 Lactantius: Reigning Together with God 434
- 25 Part 3 Conclusion: Millennium and Mysticism 455

General Conclusion Eschaton and Telos: The New Jerusalem in Early Christianity 463

Bibliography 475

Index of Ancient References 500

Index of Modern Authors 524

Index of Historical Figures (non-Biblical only) 529

Index of Ancient Places 532

Subject Index 533