

---

Contents

---

Contributors	vii
Acknowledgements	viii
1. Introduction to the Research Handbook on Global Climate Constitutionalism Jordi Jaria-Manzano and Susana Borràs	1
2. The Anthropocene challenge to our worldview Alf Hornborg	17
3. Law in the Anthropocene Jordi Jaria-Manzano	31
4. A global environmental constitution for the Anthropocene's climate crisis Louis J. Kotzé	50
5. The atmosphere as a global commons Klaus Bosselmann	75
6. Global environmental constitutionalism as a constitutionalism of the Earth José Rubens Morato Leite and Patryck de Araujo Ayala	88
7. Global constitutionalism as an ambivalent script José Manuel Pureza	102
8. The fragility of climate, human responsibility and finding the impetus to act decisively – investigating the potential of the ethics of care Karen Morrow	114
9. A human rights framework for the Anthropocene Amy Sinden	132
10. Climate change as a common concern of humankind: some reflections on the international law-making process Bharat H. Desai and Balraj K. Sidhu	153
11. Environmental rights, responsibility and care: a new constitutional paradigm Gregorio Mesa Cuadros	176
12. Environmental justice, climate justice and constitutionalism: protecting vulnerable states and communities Sumudu Atapattu	195
13. Climate migration, gender and poverty Susana Borràs	216

14.	Global climate constitutionalism and justice in the courts James R. May and Erin Daly	235
15.	Energy transition: reforming social metabolism Melissa Powers	246
16.	Capitalocene, Thermocene and the Earth system: global law and connectivity in the Anthropocene age Endrius Cocciolo	277
17.	Beyond energy justice: towards a just transition Raphael J. Heffron and Darren McCauley	302
18.	Conclusion: exploring a constitution for the climate Jordi Jaria-Manzano	314
	Index	325