

Contents

Acknowledgments	vii
Introduction	1
1 Chinese Philosophy: A Brief History	10
From Chaos to Order: The Warring States and Han Periods	12
From Origins to Interdependence: Wei-Jin and Tang-Song	20
Matter and Its Patterns: From Ming to Mid-Qing	26
A Modern Tradition: From Late Qing to the Contemporary World	30
2 The Varieties of Philosophical Style	38
Discussions and Stories: Philosophy as Conversation	39
Laoist Poetics and Commentarial Debate	46
Mohist Analysis and Wang Chong's Questioning	56
Buddhist Styles: Sutra, Logic, Lecture and Surprise	67
From Evidentiary Learning to Modern Academic Genres	80
3 The Whole and Not Just the Parts	90
"Proto-Daoists" on the Ten Thousand Things and I	93
Huayan Buddhists: From Interdependence to Interpenetration	102
Zhang Zai's Poles of a Unity	117
Tang Junyi on the Non-Separation of One and Many	122
4 Relations Natural and Social	131
Confucius on Deference, Learning and Advancing Others	136

The Personhood of Women 149

Linji on Awakening the Buddhas 163

Dai Zhen on Desire as the Key to Co-Humanity 173

A Contemporary Debate over Filial Mutuality 179

5 Managing All under Heaven in the Warring States 187

Confucians on the Feeling Heart of Body and State 191

Mohists on Inclusivism and Judgment 201

Legalists on the Selfish Heart and Strong State 207

The De-centralizing "Proto-Daoists" 212

6 Managing All under Heaven with Continuity or Plurality 224

Han Yu and Zongmi: Tang Nativism and Cosmopolitanism 227

The Great Debate: Zhu's Learning vs. Wang's Feeling 238

Zhang Xuecheng on How Confucius Ordered the World 249

Democracy and Authority in Tradition 256

Afterword 266

Glossary 272

Bibliography 285

Index 288