

Contents

Preface	5
Pavel Drábek: Jaroslav Folta septuagenarian	7
Pavel Drábek: Opera selecta Foltae	9
Hana Barvíková, Pavel Drábek: Selected bibliography of Jaroslava Folta	19
Jaromír Baštinec: Dr. Folta and organization of Summer School in History of Mathematics	35
Jasna Fempl-Madjarevic: On the Workshop in History of Science and Technology	41
Christa Binder: Kepler and the Archimedean Solids	45
S. S. Demidov: Dimitrievich Brashman (1796–1866) and the development of mathematics in Russia	63
Roman Duda: Eduard Čech and topology	73
Miroslav Tibor Morovics: János Bolyai's unrenowned face	81
Christine Phili: Reflections of Picard's theorem and Monge's problem on two Greek mathematicians: G. Remoundos and P. Zervos.	95
Šefan Porubský: Matyáš Lerch's book „Bernoulli's polynoms“	119
Karl-Heinz Schlote: Die Wandlung des Carl Neumann	143
Peter Schreiber: The Beginnings of Visualizing the Invisible	157
Emilie Těšínská: On Czech-Polish scientific contacts in mathematics and physics	169
Alena Hadravová, Petr Hadrava: Astronomy in Medieval Prague (Especially at the Beginning of the 15 th Century)	203
Vladimír Karpenko: Indian natural sciences and alchemy	209
Karel Mačák: Franz Konrad Bartl und seine Tastenharmonika	225
Franz Pichler: Franz A. Petřina's Magnet-elektrische Maschinen in Linz und in Prag	231
Ivo Proks: Lazare and Sadi Carnots	239
Miloslav Rechcigl, Jr.: Czech and Slovak physicians and technicians on american continent	267
Josef Smolka, Martin Šolc: Zu dem Briefwechsel zwischen Th. Hagecius und A. Dudithius	275
Annette Vogt: Von Prag in die „neue Welt“ — die Wege der Chemikerin Gertrud Kornfeld	281
Authors	299