

Contents

---

Foreword .....	9
Part One: Reason .....	13
1 The entropic model.....	15
Introduction.....	16
The emergence of a paradigm.....	17
The entropic model: a critique of its methodological value for economics .....	26
Concluding remarks.....	31
Appendix: Review of Venkat Venkatasubramanian, How Much     Inequality is Fair? .....	34
2 The logic of social study.....	39
The claim for a different epistemology.....	41
Historical specificity in social science .....	49
Appendix: Review of Richard E. Wagner, Mind, Society,     and Human Action .....	62
3 Cumulative causation .....	66
Introduction.....	67
The common language of uneven development .....	70
Understanding historical evolutions: a critique of the theories of uneven development.....	76
Concluding remarks.....	88
4 Historical reason and liberalism: a methodological approach .....	91
Introduction.....	91
The legacy of historical reason .....	94

Liberty's historical reason .....	99
A critique of liberalism .....	103
Concluding: why do we need a historical perspective of liberalism?.....	117
Appendix: Review of Ralph Harris in His Own Words, the Selected Writings of Lord Harris .....	119
Appendix: Review of Immanuel Wallerstein, The Modern World-System IV Centrist Liberalism Triumphant, 1789-1914 .....	125
PART TWO: The Self .....	133
5 Pragmatism and the quest for causation in economics .....	135
Introduction.....	135
The legacy of pragmatism for the methodological discourse .....	138
Pragmatism and economic inquiry .....	142
Concluding remarks.....	151
6 Economics, Darwinism, and the case of disciplinary imports .....	153
Introduction.....	153
Overview of a Darwinian ontology of economics .....	156
A reinterpretation of evolutionary patterns based on the role of contingency .....	161
Appendix: Review of Darwinism and Economics .....	170
7 Self-interest and the modernity of homo economicus .....	177
Introduction.....	178
The rational world of homo economicus .....	179
Homo economicus' coming of age.....	187
Concluding remarks and implications.....	191
Appendix: Self-interest in a game theoretical setting .....	196

---

8 The value of sacrifice .....	207
Introduction.....	207
The growth paradigm: from economics to ideology .....	209
The value of sacrifice in the economism perspective.....	212
Revaluing sacrifice in post-growth scenarios .....	214
What obligation do we have to future generations? .....	221
Concluding .....	225
Appendix: Review of The Anthropocene and the Global     Environmental Crisis: Rethinking modernity in a new epoch .....	227
References .....	231
Index .....	267