

Contents

Acknowledgments XIII

List of Figures and Tables XIV

Abbreviations XV

Notes on Transliteration, Names, Dates, Translation and Specific Terminology XVI

Introduction 1

- 1 Early Modern Peace Congresses: a Widespread, Supracultural Phenomenon 2
- 2 A Western/Central European Apanage 5
- 3 The Carlowitz Congress Historiographic State-of-the-Art 8
- 4 Challenging Eurocentrism 10
- 5 Confronting Cultural Essentialism, Provincialising Westphalia and Demythologising Carlowitz 11
- 6 Approaching an Early Modern Congress: a Methodological Guide 16
- 7 'The Carlowitz Congress Theatre of Peace': the Libretto 18

Prelude 25

- 1 Alexandros Mavrocordatos 27
- 2 The Failed Vienna Congress and the Concept of the 'Honourable Peace' 30
- 3 War and Peace in the 1690s 36

ACT I

The Preliminaries (Late December 1697–Early October 1698)

Dramatis Personae 43

Narration Part I: Embarking on the Road to Peace 45

- 1 The First Steps 45
- 2 A Mini Interlude: the Concept of Uti Possidetis 54
- 3 The Play Resumes 58

Narration Part II: a Mistrust Caused by Distance 64

Narration Part III: Laying Down the Foundation of Peace 69

- 1 First Scene: Adrianople 69
- 2 Second Scene: Vienna 73
- 3 Third Scene: Following Peter I's 'Grand Embassy' 79
- 4 Fourth Scene: Adrianople 82
- 5 Fifth Scene: Warsaw 90
- 6 Sixth Scene: Vienna 94

Interlude I: Mediation 99

- 1 Mediation, Arbitration, Bons Offices 100
- 2 The Evolution and Proliferation of Peacemaking by Mediation in the Seventeenth Century 105
- 3 Mediators and Mediating Undertakings during the Sixteen Years' War 107
- 4 Smooth the Negotiation but Do Not Intervene in It? The (Fluid) Position and Duties of a Mediator 109
- 5 Efforts to Win Over the Mediators and Complaints of Their 'Partisanship' 113
- 6 An Impartial Peacemaker: the Self-Fashioning of a Mediator 116
- 7 The Tangible Material and Symbolic Benefits of a Mediator 117
- 8 The Various Types of Mediation at the Carlowitz Congress 118

Narration Part IV: on the Way to the Congress 121

- 1 Quarrels among the Mediators 121
- 2 The Ottoman Response to the Imperial-Venetian Instrument of the Foundation of Peace 122
- 3 The Tsar in Vienna and the Developments in the Allied Camp 132
- 4 Searching in the Archives 139
- 5 The Final French 'Mediation Gambit' 141
- 6 Apprehension on the Ottoman Side: Prevarications in Vienna 142
- 7 The Arrangement of the Final Details 147

ACT IIThe Congress Begins (October–Middle November 1698)Dramatis Personae 151Narration Part I: the Arrival of the Delegations 153

- 1 'We Have Gathered Here in the Plain of Carlowitz' 153
- 2 'All Is Quiet around Carlowitz' 155

- 3 The First Ceremonial Visits 158
- 4 The Exchange of the Plenipotentiaries' Credentials 159
- 5 The Drafting of the Congress Regulation 161

Interlude II: the Ceremonial 165

- 1 What Is the Ceremonial? 167
- 2 Terminology 168
- 3 Ceremonial Regulations in Seventeenth-Century Peace Congresses Prior to Carlowitz 170
- 4 The Pioneering Ceremonial Ordering of the Carlowitz Congress 172
- 5 The Carlowitz Participants' Hierarchical Conception of the 'Society of Polities' 174
- 6 Status Projection Instances and Means 179
- 7 The (Disputed) Ceremonial Equality of the Principal Members of an Embassy 181
- 8 The Ceremonial Forms Retained during the Talks 183
- 9 The Ceremonial of the Signing of the Instruments of the Peace Treaties 186
- 10 The Farewell Visits 187
- 11 Ceremonial Strife during the Congress: a Short Prelude 188
- 12 'Worse than a Fight of Cats and Mice': the Fierce Muscovite-Commonwealth Ceremonial Dispute 189
- 13 The 'Tents Incident' No. 2 193
- 14 Who Is to Sit First at the Table with the Ottomans? 195
- 15 'Faked' Ceremonial Disputes? 197

Narration Part II: the Arcana Congressus 199

- 1 The Secret Negotiations between Voznitsyn and the Ottoman Delegation 199
- 2 Polish Secret Dealings 203
- 3 Venetian Anxieties 204
- 4 Count Marsigli's Moves 206
- 5 And the Mediators ... 207
- 6 The Spy 208

Interlude III: Being a Plenipotentiary Ambassador 210

- 1 Clarifying the Terms 212
- 2 The Portraits of the Carlowitz Plenipotentiaries 214
- 3 The Supra-cultural Traits of an Ambassador 219
- 4 Crash-Courses for Newly Appointed Plenipotentiaries 223
- 5 The Various Social Roles of an Early Modern Ambassador 225

- 6 Striving for Partaking in the Glory of Peace 229
 7 More and Less Innocent 'Gifts' 230
 8 The Daily Routine and Obligations of a Plenipotentiary
 Ambassador 235
 9 Ambassadorial Self-Portrayal 244
 10 How Plenipotentiary Was a Plenipotentiary? 249

ACT III

The Central Phase of the Congress (13 November– 20 December 1698)

Dramatis Personae 257

Narration Part I: Sur la manière de négocier entre les plénipotentiaires 259

- 1 How to Set About the Congress Negotiations and in Which Mode to Pursue Them? 259
 2 The Fate of Transylvania Is Sealed 262

At the Negotiating Table I: Territorial Claims, Possession and Border Making 266

- 1 The Territorial Aspirations of the Participants of the Carlowitz
 Congress 267
 2 'Uti Possidetis Sequel': the Congress Playing Out 272
 3 Who Possesses What? 280
 4 Borders: Some Preliminary Thoughts 285
 5 The Terms 290
 6 'Natural' and Artificial Boundaries 292
 7 Border-Making Tools 299
 8 No-Man's-Land and the Issue of Fortresses 302
 9 Controlling the Borderlands 305
 10 A 'Closing' of the Frontier? 307

At the Negotiating Table II: Smaller South-Eastern European Polities
 as Discussion Topics during the Congress 311

- 1 Ragusan Manoeuvrings 313
 2 What Is to Be Done with the Tatars? 322

Interlude IV: the Physical and Social Environment of the Congress 335

- 1 The Practical Choice of the Plain of Carlowitz 336

- 2 Transforming the 'Wilderness' 343
- 3 A Multicultural Social Environment 347
- 4 The Congress's 'Public Opinion' 350
- 5 Instances of Ensemble Social Interaction 352
- 6 The 'Other' 353

Narration Part II: Peace Is Ostensibly Drawing Near ... at Least for Most 356

- 1 The Imperials 356
- 2 Venice 359
- 3 The Polish-Lithuanian Commonwealth 365
- 4 Muscovy 371
- 5 New Rapproachments in the Allied Camp 374
- 6 The Ottomans 374

Interlude v: the Composition of an Embassy 377

- 1 'The More the Better': the General Structure and Size of a Congress Embassy 377
- 2 Family Members 378
- 3 Noblemen 379
- 4 The Secretary 379
- 5 Interpreters 384
- 6 Special Advisers 391
- 7 Physicians and Priests 393
- 8 Postmen, Cooks, Provisioners, Hajduks, Servants and Others 395

Narration Part III: Meanwhile in Vienna ... 397

- 1 'You Take It, or You Leave It' 397
- 2 Francesco Loredano at the Imperial Court 401

ACT IV

The Grand Finale (20 December 1698–5 February 1699)

Dramatis Personae 407

Narration Part I: 'The Ultimate Great Obstacle for Peace' 409

- 1 Setting the Stage for the Final Act 409
- 2 The Unsuccessful Restart of the Ottoman–Venetian Talks 413

At the Negotiating Table III: Peace or Truce/Armistice? The Duration of the Treaties 416

- 1 Religion: the 'X Factor'? 418
- 2 Terminology 422
- 3 Temporal Validity of the Agreements 426
- 4 Which Type of Agreement to Pick? 429

Narration Part II: the Deadline 437

- 1 Ruzzini Remains Firm; the Imperials Actively Intervene 438
- 2 Voznitsyn's Moves 440
- 3 Apprehension at the Imperial Court 442
- 4 Time Is Running Out 443

Narration Part III: the Finale 449

- 1 Reconciliation in Public Display: the Signing Ceremonies 449
- 2 When Is Peace Considered Concluded? 453
- 3 The Last Days of the Congress 456

Conclusions 460Archival Material 467*Published Sources 469*Bibliography 472*Webpages 491*Index of Names and Places 492