

Contents

| | |
|--|------------|
| Preface | xiv |
| Acknowledgments | xix |
| About the Cover Image: Orpheus and Eurydice by Laura Sava | xx |
| SECTION ONE: WAYS OF UNDERSTANDING PHENOMENOLOGY | 1 |
| 1. Doing Phenomenology | 3 |
| Phenomenology of Practice 4 | |
| The Phenomenality of a Phenomenon 6 | |
| Bringing the Reader to Wonder 9 | |
| The Intimate Pleasure of the Secret Soul 13 | |
| Cause-and-Effect Insight 15 | |
| Meaning Insights 15 | |
| Inceptuality or Ingrasping 16 | |
| The Active Passivity of Patience 17 | |
| The Brain: Consciousness, Experience, Self 18 | |
| Streams of Phenomenology 20 | |
| The Foundational Stream 21 | |
| The Exegetical Stream 22 | |
| The Phenomenal Stream 23 | |
| Lived Experience as Starting Point 26 | |
| Lived Experience Is Meaningful, yet Not Necessarily Profound 26 | |
| The Natural Attitude 27 | |
| Back to the Thing Itself—What Is the Concrete? 29 | |
| Experience Is Always Self-Experience 31 | |
| The Instant of the Now Is Always Late—Too Late 34 | |
| To Do Phenomenology on the Things that Matter 36 | |
| Epistemology and Ontology of Practice 37 | |
| Being a Phenomenologist 38 | |
| Re-interpretive Meaningfulness 40 | |
| 2. Samples of Phenomenological Texts | 42 |
| The Play of the Eyes: What Is It Like to Make Eye Contact? 44 | |
| Seeing Where Nothing Can Be Seen 45 | |
| Looking Is Taking Possession of the World 48 | |
| The Eidos of Eye Contact 52 | |
| What Is It Like to Forget Someone's Name? 52 | |
| Proper Names 54 | |
| Name Calling 55 | |
| The Spoken Name as Gesture 56 | |

| | | |
|--|-----|-----|
| The Pain of Forgetting | 58 | |
| Spheres of Recognition | 59 | |
| Trying to Remember | 60 | |
| Unnaming—Trying to Forget | 63 | |
| The Eidos of Name-forgetting | 64 | |
| Gnostic and Pathic Touch: What Is It Like to Touch or Be Touched? | 65 | |
| The (Dia)Gnostic Touch | 67 | |
| The Probing Gnostic Touch | 68 | |
| The Private Pathic Touch | 70 | |
| The Personal Pathic Touch | 71 | |
| The Eidos of Touch | 74 | |
| Looking at the Clock: What Time Is It? | 74 | |
| A Trompe l'oeil | 75 | |
| The Phenomenal Clock | 76 | |
| Objective Clock Time | 77 | |
| The Kairos Moment | 78 | |
| Subjective Clock Time | 80 | |
| Eidos of Looking for the Time | 81 | |
| The Experience of Care-as-Worry: What Is the Language of Care? | 81 | |
| Caring for the Faces of Those Who Are Faceless | 84 | |
| Care as Primordial Ethic | 85 | |
| Self-Care | 89 | |
| Caring for One and Caring for the Many | 91 | |
| Eidos of Care as Leaping In and Leaping Ahead | 93 | |
| Writing to See: Why Write? | 94 | |
| Descending into Darkness | 100 | |
| Darkness Before the Dawn of (In)sight | 101 | |
| Darkness as Method | 103 | |
| Writing Is Like Falling Forward into the Dark | 105 | |
| Eidos of Writing and Reading as Dwelling in Unreality | 107 | |
| Philosophizing Homesickness: How to Awaken from Boredom? | 107 | |
| Phenomenology Awakens | 108 | |
| Becoming Bored By, Being Bored With, and Profound Boredom | 109 | |
| Eidos of Boredom | 110 | |
| Things and No-Things | 111 | |
| 3. On the Meaning of Meaning | | 112 |
| Phenomenological Meaning | 112 | |
| Strongly and Weakly Incarnated Meaning in Texts | 115 | |
| Directness and Indirectness of Expressivity of Meaning | 116 | |
| On the Meaning of "Thing" and the Call "To the Things Themselves" | 116 | |
| Body-I and Reflective-I | 118 | |
| The Living Moment of the "Now"—Presence and Absence | 120 | |
| Intentional, Retentional, Protentional Consciousness | 123 | |
| Primal Impressional Consciousness | 124 | |
| The Existent | 125 | |

| | |
|---|-----|
| 4. Phenomenology Is the Name of a Method | 128 |
| Knife Sharpening | 129 |
| The Method of Abstemious Reflection | 130 |
| From Doing Meta-Meta-Phenomenology to Actual Phenomenologizing | 131 |
| Aspects of Phenomenological Analysis | 132 |
| An Example: The Experience of Getting Verklempt | 132 |
| Intentional Analysis and Intuition | 136 |
| Phenomenology as Method of Inquiry | 137 |
| Phenomenology and Psychology | 139 |
| Disclosing the Phenomenalities of Human Life | 139 |
| Naming Kills What It Calls into Being | 141 |
| The I, the Me and the Self | 142 |
| Phenomenology Is Not the Psychology of Someone's Inner Life | 142 |
| Phenomenology Avoids Abstraction and Codification | 143 |
| The Primacy of Practice | 144 |
| In-Seeing Versus Utility | 145 |
| 5. The Role of Stories, Anecdotes, and Vignettes | 149 |
| The Significance of Anecdotes in Human Science Inquiry | 150 |
| Language and Experience: The Look | 153 |
| Retelling Myths for Understanding Life | 156 |
| Eros and the Fall for Love | 157 |
| Love and the Riddle of the Other | 158 |
| Empirical Descriptions Possess Fictional Status | 159 |
| Empirical Data Are Stripped of Their Factuality | 160 |
| Writing Lived Experience Descriptions (LEDs) | 160 |
| The Example Makes the Unknowable Knowable | 162 |
| Examples in Phenomenological Texts | 163 |
| A Model Is a Definite Example | 164 |
| Phenomenology Is a "Science of Examples" | 164 |
| Lived Meaning | 168 |
| On the Structure of Anecdotal Stories | 169 |
| The Power of Punctum | 170 |
| Editing Experiential Stories into Anecdotes, Vignettes, Sketches | 171 |
| Finessing the Essence of the Anecdote | 172 |
| 6. Voking Language and Experience | 174 |
| Evoking Nearness | 175 |
| Revoking Lived-Throughness | 176 |
| Invoking Intensification | 176 |
| Convoking (Em)Pathy | 177 |
| Provoking Epiphany | 177 |
| Phenomenological and Psychological Understanding | 178 |
| Textual Tone and Aspect Seeing | 178 |
| Aspect Seeing | 179 |
| Dawning Aspect | 180 |
| Aspect Blindness or Meaning Blindness | 181 |

| | | |
|---|-----|------------|
| Poetic Language: When the Word Becomes Image | 182 | |
| The Image as a Phenomenological Device | 183 | |
| The Cognitive and the Pathic | 185 | |
| SECTION TWO: PROTAGONISTS AND PRACTICES: A TRADITION OF TRADITIONS | | 191 |
| 7. On the Way to Phenomenology: Precursors | | 193 |
| Famous Dreams: René Descartes | 193 | |
| Appearance and the Thing Itself: Immanuel Kant | 197 | |
| Words Kill: Georg Wilhelm Friedrich Hegel | 199 | |
| Uncanniness: Friedrich Nietzsche | 202 | |
| Inner Duration and Laughter: Henri-Louis Bergson | 204 | |
| Erlebnis, Expression, Understanding: Wilhelm Dilthey | 208 | |
| 8. Forming Traditions: Foundational Thinkers | | 211 |
| Transcendental Phenomenology: Edmund Husserl | 211 | |
| Ontological Phenomenology: Martin Heidegger | 218 | |
| Personalistic and Value Phenomenology: Max Scheler | 224 | |
| Empathic and Faith Phenomenology: Edith Stein | 228 | |
| Personal Practice Phenomenology: Jan Patočka | 232 | |
| Political Phenomenology: Hannah Arendt | 233 | |
| 9. Phenomenological Orientations: Protagonists | | 237 |
| Ethical Phenomenology: Emmanuel Levinas | 238 | |
| Existential Phenomenology: Jean-Paul Sartre | 243 | |
| Gender Phenomenology: Simone de Beauvoir | 249 | |
| Embodiment Phenomenology: Maurice Merleau-Ponty | 251 | |
| Hermeneutic Phenomenology: Hans-Georg Gadamer | 257 | |
| Critical Phenomenology: Paul Ricoeur | 259 | |
| Literary Phenomenology: Maurice Blanchot | 263 | |
| Oneiric-Poetic Phenomenology: Gaston Bachelard | 268 | |
| Sociological Phenomenology: Alfred Schutz | 270 | |
| Postcolonial Phenomenology: Frantz Fanon | 272 | |
| Material Phenomenology: Michel Henry | 276 | |
| Deconstruction Phenomenology: Jacques Derrida | 279 | |
| Feminine Phenomenology: Hélène Cixous | 283 | |
| Technoscience Postphenomenology: Don Ihde | 287 | |
| Learning Phenomenology: Hubert Dreyfus | 289 | |
| Sense Phenomenology: Michel Serres | 290 | |
| Sensual Phenomenology: Alphonso Lingis | 292 | |
| Fragmentary Phenomenology: Jean-Luc Nancy | 298 | |
| Religious Phenomenology: Jean-Louis Chrétien | 302 | |
| Philological Phenomenology: Giorgio Agamben | 304 | |
| Radical Phenomenology: Jean-Luc Marion | 306 | |
| Technogenetic Phenomenology: Bernard Stiegler | 311 | |
| Objectivity Phenomenology: Günter Figal | 314 | |
| Ecstatic-Poetic Phenomenology: Jennifer Anna Gosetti-Ferencei | 316 | |
| Evential Phenomenology: Claude Romano | 320 | |

| | |
|---|------------|
| 10. Phenomenology and the Professions: Practitioners | 323 |
| Juris Prudence and Phenomenology | 324 |
| Phenomenology of Law: Adolf Bernhard Philipp Reinach | 324 |
| Psychopathology and Psychiatry and Phenomenology | 327 |
| Phenomenology and Psychoanalysis: Ludwig Binswanger | 327 |
| Phenomenology and General Psychopathology: Karl Jaspers | 328 |
| Phenomenology and Psychopathology: Eugène Minkowski | 330 |
| The Utrecht Tradition of Phenomenology | 331 |
| Phenomenology of Physiology: Frederik J. Buytendijk | 336 |
| Phenomenology of Pedagogy: Martinus J. Langeveld | 339 |
| Phenomenology of Psychiatry: Jan Hendrik van den Berg | 342 |
| Phenomenology of Pedagogical Atmosphere: Otto F. Bollnow | 344 |
| Phenomenology of Pediatrics: Nicolaas Beets | 347 |
| Phenomenology of Idolatry: Johannes Linschoten | 350 |
| Phenomenology of Ministering: Anthony (Ton) Beekman | 351 |
| Phenomenology of Practice Projects | 351 |
| SECTION THREE: METHODS, RESEARCH, WRITING | 355 |
| 11. Philosophical Methods: Epoché and Reduction | 357 |
| The Basic Method: Phenomenological Reduction | 357 |
| The Insight-Sensitive Attitude: Epoché Reduction | 364 |
| Serendipitous "Method" | 365 |
| The Abstemious Epoché-Reduction: Invitations to Openness | 366 |
| The Heuristic Epoché-Reduction: Wonder | 367 |
| The Hermeneutic Epoché-Reduction: Self-Awareness | 368 |
| The Experiential Epoché-Reduction: Concreteness | 369 |
| The Methodological Epoché-Reduction: Approach | 370 |
| The Reduction-Proper: Meaning-Giving Sources of Meaning | 372 |
| The Eidetic Reduction: Eidos or Whatness | 372 |
| The Ontological Reduction: Ways of Being | 374 |
| The Ethical Reduction: Alterity | 375 |
| The Radical Reduction: Self-Givenness | 376 |
| The Originary Reduction: Inception or Originary Meaning | 378 |
| Inversion—From Meaning to Method | 382 |
| Lived-Throughness: The Revocative Value of a Text | 385 |
| Nearness: The Vivid Evocation of Experience | 387 |
| Intensification: Invocative Value of Key-words | 389 |
| (Em)Pathic: The Convocative Effect of Text | 392 |
| Epiphany: The Provocative Quality of Text | 392 |
| 12. Human Science Methods: Empirical and Reflective Activities | 396 |
| Empirical Methods of Gathering Lived Experience Descriptions | 397 |
| Practical Phenomenological Interview Points | 399 |
| Two Interview Reminders | 401 |
| The Hermeneutic Interview | 402 |
| Observing Lived Experiences | 402 |
| Borrowing from Fiction | 403 |

| | | |
|---|-----|-----|
| Tracing Etymological Sources | 403 | |
| Searching Idiomatic Phrases | 405 | |
| Themes and Theme Analysis | 406 | |
| Approaches to Thematic Reading and Analysis | 406 | |
| Existentials: Guides for Thematic Reflection | 407 | |
| Existentiality—Lived World | 409 | |
| Relationality—Lived Self-Other | 409 | |
| Corporeality—Lived Body | 410 | |
| Spatiality—Lived Space | 411 | |
| Temporality—Lived Time | 412 | |
| Materiality—Lived Things | 413 | |
| Technology—Lived Technics | 414 | |
| What Is a Phenomenological Question? | 416 | |
| The Interview Transcript | 417 | |
| An Example of a Thematic Reading | 420 | |
| Insight Cultivators (Applied to the Theme of Illness and Health) | 424 | |
| The Body of Self, Experienced as an Aspect of the World | 427 | |
| The Experience of the Other's Body as an Aspect of the World | 429 | |
| The Body of Self, Experienced as Encumbered | 429 | |
| The Experience of the Other's Body as Encumbrance | 431 | |
| The Body of Self, Experienced as Self-Observed | 432 | |
| The Experience of the Other's Body by the Glance My Body | 434 | |
| The Body of Self, Experienced as Appreciation | 435 | |
| The Experience of the Other's Body as Appreciation | 437 | |
| The Body of Self, Experienced as Call | 437 | |
| The Experience of the Other's Body as Call by the Other | 439 | |
| Insight Cultivators Can Mobilize Phenomenological Insights | 440 | |
| 13. Methodological Issues | | 444 |
| Conceptual Analysis | 444 | |
| Truth as Veritas and Aletheia | 445 | |
| The Reduction, Predroduction, and Abduction | 447 | |
| Validity, Reliability | 448 | |
| Data Analysis, Coding | 451 | |
| Evidence and Intuition | 452 | |
| Intentionality | 453 | |
| Generalization, Bias, and Prejudice | 455 | |
| Interpretive Psychological Analysis versus Phenomenological Analysis | 457 | |
| Bacon's Idols | 458 | |
| 14. The Desire to Write | | 460 |
| Reading the Writing | 462 | |
| Textualizing Orality and Oralizing Written Text | 463 | |
| Research Writing | 464 | |
| Inner Speech and Inner Writing | 466 | |
| Phenomenology Is Already Writing | 466 | |
| Presence and Absence | 468 | |

CONTENTS

Seeing the World Nude 469
Writing Desire 473

Preface

| | |
|---------------------------------|-----|
| Bibliographic References | 475 |
| Name Index | 490 |
| Subject Index | 494 |