

Contents

I	Introduction	5
II	Labor Markets and Economic Growth	8
1	Production of Human Capital	9
2	Allocation of Human Capital	13
III	Initial Reallocation: Comparing Two Paths	17
3	Introduction	17
4	Background	19
4.1	Transition Policies	19
4.2	Empirical Literature	21
5	Data and Measurement Issues	23
5.1	Data	24
5.2	Measurement of Job and Worker Reallocation Rates	28
6	Aggregate Reallocation and Theories of Massive Adjustment	30
6.1	Theoretical Predictions	34
6.1.1	Creative Destruction with Frictions	34
6.1.2	Optimal Speed of Transition	36
6.1.3	Existing Evidence	40
6.2	Basic Findings	41
6.3	Interpreting Results in the Light of Theory	51
6.3.1	OST Theory	52
6.3.2	CH Theory	59
6.3.3	U.S. Empirical Literature	62
6.4	Final Remarks	63
7	Microeconomics of Reallocation	66
7.1	Industrial Reallocation	72
7.2	Firm-size Reallocation	78
7.3	Demographic Reallocation	82
7.4	Reallocation and Wages	82
7.5	Low-Wage New-Sector Jobs	88
7.6	Conclusions	90
8	Appendix	92

IV	Assessing the Supply of Tertiary Education	93
9	Introduction	93
10	Background	95
11	Data	98
12	Results	101
	12.1 Educational Structure of Employment and Relative Wages	101
	12.2 Mincerian Returns to Education	104
13	Conclusions	109
V	Gender Wage Gap and Segregation	111
14	Introduction	111
15	Background and Previous Literature	114
	15.1 Gender Wage Gap in Transition	114
	15.2 Segregation and Wages	116
16	Data	119
17	Estimation Approach	123
18	Results	128
	18.1 Descriptive Evidence on Wage Gap and Segregation	128
	18.2 Accounting for the Wage Gap	133
	18.3 Decomposing the Wage Gap	143
	18.4 Cross-Country Comparison	149
19	Conclusion	152
20	Bibliography	154