

Table of Content

---

Acknowledgements	1
Note on the Name Transcriptions	3
Preface	4
David R. Marples
My Existential Journey Through the Belarusian Revolution	9
Andrei Kureichik
Introduction	12
Olga V. Solovieva
Part 1. Belarusian Protests in a Local and Global Perspective
“What Is Happening in Belarus?” Roundtable with Ales Bialiatski, Michael McFaul, and David R. Marples	26
Olga V. Solovieva
Part 2. Representing Belarusian Protests
Belarus—Faces of Resistance . Photographs, drawings, film stills from the exhibit at the Southspace Gallery, June 24–September 30, 2022	49
Oliver Okun
Mapping Belarusian Protests: “Be Water” (August 11, 2020) and the “Women’s March” (August 29, 2020)	88
Julia Turner and Geoffrey Goldberg
Part 3. The Art of Resistance in Belarus
Belarus: Photography, Art, and the Faces of Resistance . The University of Chicago Joseph Regenstein Library Exhibit	103
Megan Browndorf
Part 4. Contexts: The Cultures of Protest in Contemporary Ukraine,     Belarus, and Russia
“Work of Archives and Cultural Institutions as Protest”—the 2019 Roundtable with Serguei Parkhomenko, Ales Bialiatski, and Vasyl Cherepanyn	123
Yuliya Ilchuk and Olga V. Solovieva

“About the Local and What All Hold In Common”: Interview with Ales Bialiatski 139
Olga V. Solovieva

Part 5. Aftermath: The 2022 Nobel Peace Prize

Ales Bialiatski, Together: On the 2022 Nobel Peace Prize and East Slavic Solidarity 170
Olga V. Solovieva

Knowledge–Memory–Freedom: The Relevance of the 2022 Nobel Peace Prize 179
Adam F. Kola

Part 6. The Future of the Past: Envisioning the Belarusian Democracy

“Diasporic Narratives and Memories”: Designing a New Concept of the Museum of Multi-Ethnic Belarusian Emigration at the Institute on the Formation of Knowledge 188
Bożena Shallcross and Olga V. Solovieva