

Contents

Preface
Nico Stehr vii

Introduction: Is Freedom a Daughter of Knowledge?
Nico Stehr 1

Part 1

Knowledge and Freedom as a Two-Way Street

Introduction to Part 1
Steve Fuller 9

1. Two Concepts of Freedom: Implications for the Question of Knowledge
Thora Margareta Bertilsson 13

2. Do We Need Self-Knowledge in Order to Live as Free Citizens?
Stein Ringen 25

3. Death, Justice, and Freedom: Does Global Knowledge Change the Rules? Or, Freedom's Family Romance
Charles Lemert 39

Part 2

Rethinking Democracy: Are Societies Becoming Less Democratic and Citizens Less Knowledgeable?

Introduction to Part 2
J. Rogers Hollingsworth 51

4. Knowledge and Democracy: Is Freedom a Daughter of Knowledge?
Erhard Busek 59

5. Trust Matters: Democratic Impingements in the City of Knowledge
Uli Schreiterer 65

6. What May the Sheep Safely Know?
Reiner Grundmann 85

7. Science Democratized = Expertise Decommissioned
Steve Fuller 105

8. Balancing Expert Power: Two Models for the Future of Politics
Stephen Turner 119
9. How Robust is “Socially Robust Knowledge”?
Peter Weingart 143

Part 3

Problems in Institutionalizing Knowledge for Freedom

- Introduction to Part 3
Steve Fuller 159
10. Knowledge, Democracy, and Uneven Playing Fields: Insights from Climate Politics in—and between—the US and Brazil
Myanna Lahsen 163
11. The Role of Scientific Knowledge in Public Policy in Theory and in Political Practice—The Case of Integrated Rural Development
Michael Böcher 183
12. Information Liberation? The Relations of Knowledge and Freedom in Social-Democratic Thought
Alistair S. Duff 199
13. Science, Democracy, and Social (Dis)order: Some Concluding Reflections
Alan Irwin 217
- Contributors 227
- Index 235