

Contents

Acknowledgments	vii
Introduction	xi
The Project	xiii
The Literature	xix
The Timing	xxv
The Nomenclature	xxix
1. What Is a “Garden”?	1
Earlier Definitions	5
Defining “The Garden” Etymologically	10
Defining “The Garden” Historically	12
Defining “The Garden” via Gardening Practice	15
Defining “The Garden” Linguistically	17
Defining “The Garden” via Inventory and Taxonomy	18
What Does Not Count as a Garden	33
2. Defining “The Garden”	37
Defining Features of Gardens	37
Identity Conditions and Replication	53
3. Gardens and Art	59
When a Garden May, or May Not, Be a Work of Art	60
Application of Art Theory	62
How The Garden Is Similar to Other Artforms in General Terms	67
How The Garden Is Similar to Other Specific Artforms	73
4. The Garden as an Artform	87
Arguments against The Garden Being an Artform	87
How The Garden Is Different from Other Artforms	101
Is the Kind “Garden” an Artform?	120
When Is a Garden a Work of Art?	124
5. Formal Aesthetic Properties of Gardens	129
What Does It Mean to Aesthetically Appreciate Anything?	130
Properties of Gardens	137
The Elephant in the Garden: Dynamism and the Objecthood Problem	141
Resolving the Objecthood Problem: Phenomenal Gardens	146
Garden Elements as Phenomenal Properties	151

Process Properties	153
Formal Aesthetic Properties	155
Formal Properties of Garden Styles	162
6. The Relevance of Context	169
The Limits of Disinterest	169
Garden Contextuality	179
Genetic Factors	181
Lifespan Factors	185
Relationship Factors	187
Reception Factors	190
Appreciating Gardens Aesthetically	197
7. Can We Interpret Gardens?	205
The Argument against Interpreting Gardens	209
The Case for Garden Interpretation	220
8. How Can We Interpret Gardens?	227
Theories of Art Interpretation and Their Application to Gardens	227
Reading a Garden Formally	235
Garden Form	242
Application of Garden Form	252
Form-Focused Garden Interpretation	255
Unique Features of Garden Interpretation	259
9. Gardens and Value	265
Do Gardens Have Only Positive Value?	265
The Relevance of Ethics to Gardens	271
Ethical Problems Associated with Gardens	276
Can the Value of One Garden Be Compared to That of Another?	287
10. Evaluating Gardens and Gardening	303
How Is the Aesthetic Value of One Garden Compared with That of Another?	303
Garden Criticism	313
What Is the Value of Gardening?	322
Garden Ethics	333
Conclusion	337
Bibliography	347
Index	357