

Contents

	features — 133	Prestige and context — 63
Acknowledgments — V
	form) — 133	Literary Florentine and speech — 63
Abbreviations and symbols used — XI
	form) — 180	Different norms for speech and writing — 88
Note to the reader — XIII
	form) — 145	Speech and context of usage — 75
List of figures — XV
		Literary Florentine and informal writings — 88
		Insights from grammars — 83
List of tables — XVII
		Insights from lexicographical manuals — 83
		Qualitative analysis: Seven levels — 82
Chapter 1
Introduction — 1
1.1	Prestige: A working definition — 2
1.2	Framework of the study: Historical sociolinguistics — 4
1.3	Historical sociolinguistics in the Italian tradition — 7
1.4	Background: Codification and language debates in early modern Italy — 10
1.5	Sources and methodology — 15
1.6	Some notes on terminology — 16
1.7	Overview of the book — 18
Part 1: Prestige targets in the metalinguistic discourse: An examination of treatises and grammars
Chapter 2
Prestige and standardness — 23
2.1	A problematic relationship — 23
2.2	The new speaker paradigm — 25
2.3	Issues of prestige through the new speaker lens — 32
2.3.1	Authority and ownership: Naming learners of Florentine — 32
2.3.2	Prestige targets for non-Tuscan learners — 34
2.3.3	Non-Tuscan learners as agents of change — 45
2.3.4	The status of “book” Florentine in Florence — 46
2.3.5	Speakers (and writers) of other Tuscan vernaculars — 58
2.4	Conclusion — 61

Chapter 3Prestige and context — 62

- 3.1 Introduction — 62
- 3.2 Literary Florentine and speech — 63
 - 3.2.1 The search for the spoken dimension — 63
 - 3.2.2 Different norms for speech and writing — 66
 - 3.2.3 A problematic dichotomy — 68
 - 3.2.4 Speech and domain of usage — 79
- 3.3 Literary Florentine and informal writings — 83
 - 3.3.1 Insights from grammars — 83
 - 3.3.2 Insights from letter-writing manuals — 85
 - 3.3.3 Different prestige targets? — 92
- 3.4 Conclusion — 93

Part 2: Prestige targets in informal writings: An analysis of the Buonarroti letter corpusChapter 4*The Buonarroti letter corpus — 97

- 4.1 Introduction — 97
- 4.2 Michelangelo's correspondence — 98
- 4.3 The advantages of the Buonarroti letter corpus — 101
 - 4.3.1 Letters for practical purposes — 101
 - 4.3.2 A variety of writers — 103
 - 4.3.3 The Buonarroti letters as a historical sociolinguistic corpus — 105
 - 4.3.4 The issue of authenticity — 106
- 4.4 Sociohistorical reconstruction — 111
 - 4.4.1 Social distinctions — 111
 - 4.4.2 Geographical mobility — 115
- 4.5 Preparation and description of the corpus — 118

Chapter 5The reception of literary features across time and social rank — 121

- 5.1 Introduction — 121
- 5.2 Selecting features for analysis — 122
- 5.3 Saliency of features — 122
- 5.4 Two types of analysis — 127
- 5.5 Issues for the quantitative analysis — 128

- 5.6 Quantitative analysis: Three morphological and two syntactic features — 133
 - 5.6.1 MASC SG DETERMINER il (14th-century form) / el (16th-century form) — 133
 - 5.6.2 MASC SG NOM PRONOUN egli (14th-century form) / lui (16th-century form) — 141
 - 5.6.3 1PL PRES/FUT IND: -mo (14th-century form) / -no (16th-century form) — 145
 - 5.6.4 Proclisis in main clauses introduced by connector e — 147
 - 5.6.5 Expression or deletion of relativiser — 151
 - 5.6.6 Some keypoints from the quantitative analysis — 156
- 5.7 Qualitative analysis: Seven features of verb morphology — 158
 - 5.7.1 FUT IND and PRES COND arò, arei (16th C) / av(e)rò, av(e)rei (14th C) — 158
 - 5.7.2 1SG IMPERF IND: -o (16th C) / -a (14th C) — 159
 - 5.7.3 FUT IND/PRES COND 1st CLASS VERBS: -ar- (16th C) / -er- (14th C) — 162
 - 5.7.4 PAST PARTICIPLE of “to be”: suto / stato — 164
 - 5.7.5 3PL PERF IND 1st CLASS VERBS: -or(o)no (16th C) / -arono (14th C) — 166
 - 5.7.6 3PL PRES IND 1st CLASS VERBS: -ono (16th C) / -ano (14th C) — 167
 - 5.7.7 3PL IMPERF IND: -ono (16th C) / -ano (14th C) — 168
- 5.8 Qualitative analysis: two features of nominal morphology — 170
 - 5.8.1 FEM PL 2ND CLASS in -e (16th C) / -i (14th C) — 170
 - 5.8.2 PL POSSESSIVE: Uninflected (16th C) / inflected (14th C) — 172
- 5.9 Qualitative analysis of two phonological features — 175
 - 5.9.1 METATHESIS: Metathetical (16th C) form: dr(i)eto, drento, pr(i)eta / non-metathetical (14th C) form: dietro, dentro, p(i)etra — 175
 - 5.9.2 Fuora (16th C) / fuori (14th C) — 178
- 5.10 Conclusion — 179

Chapter 6Prestige mechanisms and social networks — 182

- 6.1 Introduction — 182
- 6.2 Social network analysis in (historical) sociolinguistics — 183
- 6.3 Social networks and prestige — 186
- 6.4 Factors linked to prestige in early modern Florence — 189
- 6.5 Data for analysis — 190
- 6.6 The Buonarroti Simoni — 193
- 6.7 Biographical profiles — 194

6.8 Biographical factors and prestige — 204

6.8.1 Factors facilitating the adoption of covertly prestigious forms — 204

6.8.2 Factors facilitating the adoption of overtly prestigious forms — 205

6.9 Writers' networks and orientation to prestigious features — 206

6.10 Results — 207

6.11 Discussion — 208

6.11.1 Salient features — 209

6.11.2 Features with low salience — 211

6.12 Conclusion — 212

Chapter 7

Conclusion: From attitudes to usage — 216

Appendix I: Feature count — 223

Appendix II: Results of mixed-effects logistic regression — 249

Appendix III: Subcorpora — 255

References — 261

Index — 289